A DETACHABLE LEGEND

Callie—So this is the old settle you told me you had picked up at such a bargain. My dear, it's a perfect treasure! It looks as if there might be some real old legend connected with it.

Hostess—Well, there was, but at the price I offered, the dealer said he would have to keep the legend and connect it with an antique bedstead that he had.

The Supreme Test

"Does you husband treat you unkindly?"

"Certainly not!" said the woman. "Then why do you want a divorce?" "I don't actually want a divorce. I merely want to apply for one. Then I can judge by the kind of a fuss my husband makes whether he really cares for me or not."

He Lost the Job

Seaside Hotel Proprietor—Ah! And now, over here is the ocean.

Publicity Expert—The ocean? Where? I don't see any ocean. Hotel Proprietor—You—don't—see—any—ocean! Well, my dear sir, I'm afraid you're not the man we want to write our advertisements.—Manchester Evening News.

Happens That Way Sometimes

"Jokeley is full of it. Saw him last night sitting on his woodpile telling funny stories, expecting the wood to split."

"But it didn't."

"No; evidently he did not strike a responsive cord."

NEOLITHIC COUNTRY CLUB

Skippants—How come you to score me twenty-seven strokes on the fourth hole?

His Caddy—Under the rules every wallop you take at your opponent or your caddy counts as a stroke.

Satiated Curiosity

Investigation still they press Upon our nerves unceasing. A lot of us would fain confess, "We know too much, already."

Satisfactory Golf

"Beg pardon, Mr. Flubdub," said the professional, "but the way you swing your club will never get you anywhere."

"Never mind, Sandy. I just swung a profitable business deal."

Not a Prophet

He asked the old actor when he thought he might possibly repay an ancient loan.

"Can't say, old boy. I'm an actor, not a prophet."—Good Hardware.

He Could Fill It

He (sarcastically)—There's enough brass in your face to make a kettle. She (ditto)—And there's enough sap in your head to fill it.—Yale Record.

Shook a Wicked Spoon

Blake—You say this Indian killed over 100 men? Whew, he must have been some chief!

Drake—No, he was some chief.

Thinking of the Home Nest

"Wonder why Tom calls his wife 'Birdie'?"

"Probably because she is always associated in his mind with a bill."

The DeLuxe Sedan

Here is a beautiful specimen of motor car architecture. The luxurious coachwork of the new Overland Six Sedan stands as a criterion of all motor car coachwork. A smart streamline body belted at the waistline by a custom-designed beading. Finished in a beautiful color duet—Peacock Blue below the belt and dust-proof Grey above the belt. Nickel radiator. Heavy crown fenders. Fisk balloon tires. The interior of the body is exceptionally roomy—and richly upholstered in luxurious Baker Velour, noted for its softness, sheen and long-wearing qualities. A motor car in which quality is eminently higher than price.

The power-plant of the new Overland Six is a superb specimen of fine engineering. Six cylinders never lived together more harmoniously, or worked together more happily. Remarkable power! The finely balanced crankshaft is ingeniously drilled for positive, force-fed lubrication at all speeds.

Engine, clutch and transmission are a unit—and completely enclosed for protection against mud and dirt. The clutch is an eight-disc design—specially constructed for velvety shifting of gears. In action, the engine of the new Overland Six is a dream of performance come true!
