

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE!
STILL ON AT GARRICK

"Abie's Irish Rose" seems likely to duplicate the success that has attended its presentation in other cities. Sunday night it will enter its fifteenth week at the Garrick Theatre, Detroit. The business done by this attraction for the past fourteen weeks is nothing if not phenomenal, nearly capacity of the theatre at most all performances. Anne Nichols, author of "Abie's Irish Rose," claims that in writing the comedy she followed the line of least resistance. Feeling that the public was tired of bedroom farce, mystery dramas and sex-problem plays, she started out to write a humorous drama concerning every-day affairs, basing her play on the triple marriage of a young couple. The husband's father is an orthodox Hebrew and the young wife's father is an Irish Catholic. The couple are married by a Methodist minister, a rabbi and a priest, while their respective families wrangle. At last the rabbi and the priest succeeded in breaking down the antagonism, bringing the warring fathers into a much-needed haven of peace. To tell the complications and more of the plot of Miss Nichols' comedy would only lessen your enjoyment while witnessing this, the biggest laughing hit of recent times theatrical. Matinees are given at the Garrick each Wednesday and Saturday, and it is good judgment to place your order for seats well in advance. Tickets can be purchased two weeks in advance.

ERNESTINE MYERS AT DETROIT TEMPLE THEATRE

Ernestine Myers and her company of nine people in a series of beautiful and artistic dances, headlines the bill at E. F. Keith's Temple theatre for the week starting Sunday matinee, August 9. Miss Myers, hailed as the most sensational ballerina on the American vaudeville stage brings a special company in an elaborate dancing flash. The production is colorful, elaborately mounted and gorgeously costumed. Adler Weil and Herman, Detroit's favorite masters of harmony have been held over for a second week by popular demand. They will give an entire new program of songs and piano. Others listed: "One and Won is To," Pasquall Brothers, three unusual athletes; Will J. Kennedy and a cast of six in the comedy episode, "Pinch Me;" Pearson, Newport and Pearson, in a unique offering entitled "Rhythm;" Jutta Valley and Company in "Sky-High;" Lady Alice's Pets, aristocrats of American animaldom and the usual pictures.

Old Adage Disproved

Modern science has disproved the old saying that a silk purse cannot be made from a sow's ear, for a Boston chemist has recently fashioned a beautifully colored bag from pigs' ears obtained at a slaughter house.

Elephants of "Commerce"
It is the Asiatic or Indian elephant that is tamed and trained. While there seems to be no reason that the African elephant could not be trained, it has not been.

OUR DAIRY is run on a strictly scientific basis. By careful study we have learned the best way to care for the cattle. Our milk bottling system is open to inspection. Our delivery is always on schedule.

"Our Restrictions are Your Protection"

Independence!

FIRST:
What is INDEPENDENCE?

Webster says that it is a state of being "not subject to the control of others" or "not dependent on others."

Every person, of normal intelligence and ambition, sometime in their lifetime have hopes of being independent someday, but few realize their hopes. Statistics show us that less than ten people out of every hundred are independent at the age of fifty or sixty. The reason for this is that when people are young and could save they don't do it, and the result is when they are old and unable to save they are partly or wholly dependent upon others for means of support.

NO PERSON in this world is entirely independent for the supply of their wants. Every person is dependent to hundreds of others for the supply of their wants; but many people are independent for the means of that supply.

The INDEPENDENCE which we mean is independence which makes a person independent of others for the means of their support.

THERE IS ONLY ONE WAY to reach that state of life, and that is by systematic saving. There are many ways to save systematically, but one sure way is to invest a few dollars a month in GOOD REAL ESTATE.
