NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

A good attendance at the library Saturday in spite of the bad weather.
Some of the new books to be found at the Town Library are: "Queer Judson," by Joseph Lincoln.

"Aerial Custer," by Grace Hill.
"The Professors House," by Willis Cather.
"Romance of Noon Village," by McCutcheon.
"The Perennial Bachelor" and others, Anne Parrish.
Also for the younger readers.

SAINT JOAN AT NEW DETROIT

It will be a great pleasure to welcome back to the local stage that sterling success, Julia Arthur, in Bernard Shaw's latest and greatest play, "Saint Joan" which comes to the New Detroit Opera House for an engagement limited to one week, opening Sunday evening, November 15, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. "Saint Joan" created a most favorable impression upon its visit to Detroit last season. It is accounted by far the very best from the pen of that famous writer, George Bernard Shaw.

The play is decidedly unique and an illuminating revelation of the historic legendary career of the immortalized French girl; it was an outstanding success for one solid year in New York at the Empire and Garrick Theatres, and last season was sent on tour in America by Bertram C. Whitney under whose direction the present presentation is being given.
Patrons are reminded that the curtain will rise promptly in the evenings at 8:00 o'clock, and at the matinees at 2:00 precisely.
Besides Julia Arthur the large supporting company includes such well-known players as Lynn Pratt, George Kendall, Philip Quinn, Thomas Irwin, J. G. Malady, Daniel Grant, Alfred Alexander, Wm. J. McClure, John McAre, Frank Andrews, John Penn, A. C. Henderson, Gerald Lundegard, Henry Major, Stanley DeWolf, Steven Holt, Mabel Owen and many others.

This will be the farewell visit of "Saint Joan" to Detroit as its booking includes only one other city in the state of Michigan.

The Substitute

Little Betty was anxious to own a cat, but her father had a great aversion to them and turned a deaf ear to all her pleadings. He did say, however, that she could have a dog if she could find a nice, well-behaved one that wouldn't bite the baby.
One day while walking with her mother, Betty saw a kitten frisking along beside her.
She turned a wistful face to her mother and said: "Oh, mummy! See! It doesn't seem to belong to anyone! Can't I take it home?"
"But, Betty, daddy says you can have a dog, but not a cat."
"Well, mummy, can't we take it home and use it for a dog?"

Marvelous Precocity

The precocious infant was being submitted to the psychological tests in order to determine the degree of his genius. He had already picked out numbers, arranged blocks and distinguished colors. Then came the supine test, the identification of various colors. The investigator tossed a nickel on the floor. The precocious infant bent over it while the proud parents held their breath.
Then the precocious infant winked at his dad and cried exultantly, "Heads!"—Lutheide Magazine.

First Evening Schools

It is impossible to say exactly when evening schools had their origin in America. In a contract made with the schoolmaster of Flatbush, N. Y., in 1882, the evening school is mentioned, but it is probable that attention is made to the afternoon session of the school which began at 1 p.m. It is certain, however, that in 1773 evening schools were conducted as private ventures in Salem, Mass., especially for instruction in the mariner's art, although some poor boys were taught to "cipher and to write."

View of Friendship

I have never given much encouragement to friendship; I have done little for my friends, and they have done little for me. One of the ideas which I have so often to cope with is that friendship, as it is generally understood, is an injustice and a blunder, which only allows you to distinguish the good qualities of a single person and blinds you to those of others who are perhaps more deserving of your sympathy.—Ernest Reban.
