

The Northern Lites, the award-winning singers and dancers from North Farmington High School, join five other choir groups at the school in concert at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night in the school's Hunt Auditorium, 32900 13 Mile Road. The group has just returned from Western Michigan University where members walked away with another award for outstanding performance in vocal and jazz in competition with groups from five states. They are directed by Joann MacKenzio, at right. Tickets for the concert are $1.50 or $1 for students, at the door.

Center honors volunteer

A Farmington Hills woman has been named "Volunteer of the Month" by the Farmington Community Center.

Gail Perrin, president of the center's Volunteer Guild, is being honored for her long-standing involvement and participation.

Perrin has held numerous positions within a variety of the center's committees, including serving on the center's founding board of directors.

Asked about her reactions to the nomination, Perrin replied, "Over the years, I've received much satisfaction working with the people in the community. When I learned I was named Volunteer of the Month, I was absolutely flattered."

Perrin, a graduate of Michigan State University, lives here with her husband Kenneth and three children.

Youth offered art

Summer Art Camp at Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association, 1516 Cranbrook Road, runs from June 25 through July 6. Students in grades 1-12 will be offered a nine-day concentrated art experience that will allow them in-depth work in three classes per day. Every day there will be a general group session featuring music, films, clowns, mimes, magic plus other surprises. A zoo trip with on-site drawing and sketching and a final art "carnival" for students and their parents is planned.

Enrollment will be limited. For registration information, call 644-0866.

With the support of Michigan Council for the Arts, the association has adopted a policy of affirmative action, assuring equal and fair treatment to all, regardless of race, color, national origin, age, sex or handicap.
