

second runs Tom Panzenhagen

"The Night of the Hunter" (1955), 8 p.m. Thursday on Ch. 50. Originally 93 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Veteran English actor Charles Laughton directed one film and it's a doozy. Robert Malthus stars as a psychopathic preacher and turns in the most sinister performance of his career, while Lillian Gish and two child actors play the perfect victims of Malthus's menace. Shelby Winters costars screenplay by film critic and novelist James Agee, who also wrote "The African Queen."

Rating: $3.30.

"Force 10 from Navarone" (1978), noon Sunday on Ch. 2. Originally 118 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

You could do worse than "Force 10 from Navarone" if you're in the market for a Sunday afternoon adventure film — not much worse, however. Despite the talents of some fine character actors (Robert Shaw, Edward Fox, Franco Nero and Richard Kiel), this film lacks character and its core figures are one-dimensional. But action and explosives make the two hours pass quickly enough. Barbara Bach costars.

Rating: $2.70.

"The Ten Commandments" (1956), 7 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 219 minutes. TV time slot: 280 minutes.

Prepare yourself for an ordeal if you tune in to ABC's 4 1/2-hour presentation of "The Ten Commandments" — and an accompanying one hour of commercials. Cecil B. DeMille's epic is truly the classic of classic costume films. His direction is the most wooden, his characters the most transparent and their motivations the most ludicrous. Only Loyal Griggs' photography redeems this ultra-lavish production, unless you revel in the intentionally funny performances of scenery-chewers Edward G. Robinson and Vincent Price. (Blame DeMille, of course, for their overacting.) Charlton Heston, Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Yvonne De Carlo, John Derek and a cast of thousands co-star along with Henry Wilcox, who appeared in DeMille's 1923 version of the same film.

Rating: $1.95.

"Eye of the Needle" (1981), 7:30 and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Cass City Cinema, 4605 Cass at Forest, Detroit, phone 832-6309, $2.50. Running time 118 minutes.

Most of us missed "Eye of the Needle" when it was out a few years ago; the film from the Ken Follett novel shouldn't be overlooked again. Donald Sutherland stars as a Nazi spy opposite alluring Kate Nelligan as an Englishwoman who befriends Sutherland. Sparks of forbidden lust fly between the pair before Nelligan — in horrifying fashion — learns her lover's true identity. Robert Marquand directs.

Rating: $2.40.

'Great Escape' salutes '40s

The 1940s Great Escape Weekend will be presented Saturday-Sunday, April 14-15, at Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village.

There is no additional charge for the event beyond regular museum admission.

The 1940s Great Escape is one of a series of colorful tributes to America's past offered by the museum. During the weekend, visitors may hear a swing sextet, boogie piano tunes, vocal renditions of favorite songs and the emerging popularity of country music and western swing. Jake boxes also will spin out the hits of the decade.

Instruction in dances like the jitterbug and rumba will be open to all both days, concluding at 4 p.m. with a swing-band dance. Special guests on hand include portrayals of Rosie the Riveter, a Red Cross volunteer and Little Orphan Annie.

Visitors who drive to the Great Escape in their 1940s automobiles will be invited to park along the front drive of the museum. Each driver will be admitted free, along with one passenger.
