The camps will be held during the summer of 1984 at the Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills. The purpose of the Instructional Sports Camp will be to provide a personal approach to the development of skills and techniques particular to each sport. Camp enrollment will be geared to a small student to instructor ratio and will be available for both boys and girls of middle-school age and above. Each individual will receive instruction in a natural progression suited to their needs. Attention will be paid to all aspects of each activity. The camps will be offered on a one-week basis meeting Monday through Friday for a total of 17.5 instructional hours per week at a cost of $45 per camp, beginning the week of June 11. If you have any questions, you can call Farmington Hills Parks & Recreation at 474-6115 or Oakland Community College Physical Education Department at 471-7553.

The Community Access producer is someone who creates the idea to be expressed, and then coordinates all the elements so that this idea will successfully reach its intended audience.

This person should have qualities of adaptability and managerial skills.

Adaptability is essential because as the idea develops and problems occur such as weather, human illness and technical difficulties, the producer will need to respond naturally with, "All right, then we shall be even more dramatic by creating this alternate effect."

The adaptable producer allows the original idea to modify, although always keeping the ultimate message in mind.

The managerial qualities of the producer insure there are resourceful people making up every production facet.

Commitment is a managerial skill that incorporates developing the idea to be produced, securing the required resources, gathering necessary crew members, having preproduction meetings to keep everyone informed, calling crew to rehearsal dates of shoot commitments, taking responsibility for equipment and facilities, and most importantly, developing the ability to let the intended audience know when the show will be aired.

Think of all the daily activities you naturally "produce." Yes, you are a producer. Share with us on Channel 12 and become "The Producer."
