The performers were Detroit Symptony Orchestra musicians and priber local performers; known to regular liacteners of character music events as extremely talented. Hajor roles were played by planist Robert Conway and soprano Edith Diggory. Space procludes detailed mention of all the performers, and this is no reflection on their quality.

THE FIRST portion of the program consisted of mostly short selections of Webern and Berg. The opening four factor pleces for violin and plano by Webern were an example of extremetry compact, yet meaningful, statements. While I wouldn't go as far as characteristing them as major masterpieces, they merit serious attention. These are followed by short pleces for clarinet and plano by Berg and a short quarter than the part of the program of STYLISTICALLY, IT is similar to Berg's violin concerto and is very accessible and listensible.

The second part of the program provided a unique upportunity to hear a live rendition of the Pierrot Lumaire song cycle by Schoenberg, set to peems by Albert Giraud. This work, composed in 1913, features an idea that is considered revolutionary even at present.

The singing is done in the Sprechtimme, or speaking voice manner. There is no definite pitch or melody, but relative shifting of the pitch and intonation according to the nature of the text.

Optimist International's Respect for Law program was initiated in reaction to public apathy toward the increasing problems of crime. Since that time, Optimist clubs and other civic groups throughout the U.S. and Canada have become actively involved in programs and projects to combat disrespect for, law and public apathy toward crime. The Optimists point out that their program does not reflect a blanket endorsement of the practices and personnel of all law enforcement agencies, but does emphasize the need for citizens to demand good law enforcement and to offer cooperation in every possible way.

Hal Gordon, president of the Optimist Club of Farmington-Farmington Hills, said the chapter will be presenting commendations to Betty Nicolay of "Families in Action" and Farmington Public Safety officer Vincent Ziegler,

Workshop helps daughter understand her mother

"For Daughters Only," a one-day workshop designed to help adult daughters examine the mother-daughter relationship, will be presented by the Oakland University Continuum Center from $30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, June 15 in Room 127-128, Oakland Center, Oakland campus in Rochester. Roberta Dailey, Orchard Lake resident and counselor-trainer on the Continuum Center staff, who will lead the workshop asy, "The goal of the workshop is understanding and personal growth. It's a chance to spend time looking at our mothers but as women who may or may not have loved us well. Because may not have loved us well. Because mother-daughter relationships are usually complex and emotionally charged, it is often difficult to see one's mother simply as a human being. A clear perception and an appreciation of who our mothers are or were, can be a crucial stage in becoming a mature woman and perhaps a better mother oncestif."

You for the workshop is $40 and includes tunch. For registration, call the Continuum Center during regular bestings have been applied to the School of Riuman and Edvactional Services and acts as a community outreach arm of the University in the area of adult guidance and counseling. 52.444184= Bike Shop . donate BLOOD!
