

Versatile lily to star in Tel-Twelve show

The Michigan Regional Lily Society will hold its annual show 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday at Tel-Twelve Mall, Twelve Mile and Telegraph roads, Southfield.

Beside their use in the cutting garden, these flowers, which come in many colors, can be enjoyed all summer long year after year.

They need at least a half-day of sun and good drainage and are almost worry-free. They can remain in the same spot for years and only need to be dug up and transplanted when they become too crowded and the blooms become small.

Lilies come in every color except blue, and there are many striking bi-colored and tri-colored varieties. Some of the newest have "brushmarks" making them look as though touched with a paintbrush. "Eminence," "Picasso" and "Adobe Fire" are examples of these. Others have contrasting spots on the petals or are pure blue or white.

Blooming time stretches from early June when "Earlbird" appears until fall when frost blackens the last of the orientals.

Lilies also come in a variety of heights, the tallest such as the shrimp pink Prawn Tiger and the all-time favorite "Black Dragon" at 60 inches to the shorter, earlier varieties such as the warm red "Campfire" and unspotted vibrant orange, "Chickadee."

Lilies are one of the earliest-known and recorded plants. An early Egyptian relief shows women gathering lilies, they are also mentioned in the Old Testament.

The Greeks grew lilies both for their ornamental and medicinal value.

Since the Middle Ages, the lily has been the attribute of many saints, but particularly the Virgin Mary. No other plant has been more consistently used in works of art, painting, sculpture and verse than the lily.

Leonardo da Vinci drew a detailed pencil sketch of the Madonna lily, a flower stalk identical with the ones still grown today.

This information was compiled by Kathryn Briggs of the Michigan Regional Lily Society.

Photographs tell Grand Prix story

"Passion and Precision: The photographer and Grand Prix Racing, 1894-1984" continues at Detroit Institute of Arts through Aug. 26. Among the photographs in the exhibition is the one at left by Jesse Alexander. It shows Jim Clark, Scotland's world driving champion, just after he learned of the death of teammate Alan Stacey in the Grand Prix of Belgium, 1968. Photographers from all over the world are represented including Jacques Henri Lartigue, whose work was shown at Halsted Gallery of Birmingham earlier this year. The exhibition is open to the public free of charge in the Albert and Peggy de Salle Gallery of Photography in the Detroit Institute of Arts, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Sunday.
