

Salzburg, Austria was the first stop on the 21-day tour. While near there, one driver took the group high enough to look down on glaciers and see many skiers still enjoying the snow on the high peaks, leader John Dvoras reported.

sold his car to join the chorale. "It made things difficult getting home for rehearsals," said Robb. "I had to hitch rides with friends, but I didn't mind."

The group had an amazing combination of the kind of liveliness expected from teenagers and a seriousness when needed. The nine-hour wait in the Detroit airport, the change in currency, the German and Italian menus, or the European clothes sizes didn't seem to bother them.

They all quickly found their way around Salzburg.

"Not being able to get soda and water, not because they don't have it but because I don't know the language, is difficult. Sign language doesn't always make it," said Lisa Barbeau, a sophomore at U-M who starred in "Kismet" at Seasholm a few years ago.

According to Peters and Debbie Beckett, a teacher in Royal Oak, there were two people who "held the group together vocally and socially" — Jennifer Whorl and Tim Fowler.

Fowler, a baritone tenor who graduated from Seasholm High School in June, plans a career in music at North Texas State University beginning in the fall. He was one of the few music majors in the chorale.

"To me the most important part of anything is the attitude," said Fowler. "If that is good then everything is good. I have had to help with people's attitude in many situations. This is a fantastic group. Their attitude toward each other is fabulous."

RENEE SHAWN is a junior at Southfield High School who wants a musical career. Her solo on the tour is "Who will buy?" from Oliver which she will sing at the popular concert. She joined the chorale "because I like music and I like to sing."

Besides the 30 chorale members, 18 adults joined the tour for various reasons, mostly because they enjoy music. Two families came along, the Halberts of Birmingham, and the Slopes of Bloomfield Hills.

Ted Halbert, 19, is a sophomore at Seasholm, and his brother John, 17, is a senior. Mrs. Halbert's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Fisher of Harper Woods, was with them.

Colleen Stone is a bereavement counselor for a funeral home in Rochester. She sang the "Cata" duet by Rossini. Her parents and sister joined her "because they have always supported me in everything I do."

It was Peters' comment that best summed up everyone's feelings. "Just looking back on the trip so far, all the work was worth it. Being here with my best friends has made it perfect." To that, Melanie Hansen added, "It was the best birthday of my life."

Marketing ancient art

Krater used to mix wine and water in the 4th century B.C., valued at $7,000.

Smaller items, such as an oil lamp from the time of Jesus, sell for about $100.

"Age has something to do with price," Morris said. "But where it came from and the rarity of the piece are more important."

"A Greek antiquity from 100 B.C. may be more expensive than one from 4000 B.C. because of the artistry, the painting," Morris said.

The ages of the antiquities are related to customers in biblical terms. Thus, a piece dating from 6000 B.C. to 2350 B.C. is equated with Noah. Other periods include Abraham (2000 B.C. to 1550 B.C.), Moses (1550 B.C. to 1300 B.C.) and so on.

"The gallery is designed like a scientific time line," Morris said, so those touring the gallery may follow the evolution of design.

Dohrmann Gallery to open. A third will debut soon in suburban Denver and as many as 25 more are slated for opening across the country over the next three or four years, Dion said.

Computers eventually will assist gallery directors by locating antiquities for them.

"Several years down the line, the supply of antiquities will dwindle and the interest in them will have risen. By then we'll need a computer system," Dion said.

"Suppose Mr. Jones in New York is looking for a particular piece, a goblet, to complete his collection," Dion proposed. "Mr. Smith in California has a goblet for sale, so he comes to us to see if we can find a buyer. We put it on the computer, and it's sold."

The Alan/Dohrmann Gallery is at 135 E. Maple Avenue, Birmingham. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and until 9 p.m. Thursday.
