

Governor honored at commencement

Gov. James Blanchard will deliver the commencement address and receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at Oakland University graduation exercises Sept. 16.

Also being honored is retired Ford Motor Co. executive Marvin L. Katke, who will receive an honorary doctor of humanities degree. A charter member of the OU Board of Trustees, Katke is president of the Oakland University Foundation.

The Bloomfield Hills resident's gifts also helped make possible the construction of OU's Katke-Cousins Golf Course.

Some 660 students are candidates for degrees at the 2 p.m. ceremony in Baldwin Pavilion. The exercises officially open OU's 25th anniversary celebration.

Other highlights include presentation of the teaching excellence award to Nigel Hampton of Bloomfield Hills, an associate professor of English. Chosen by a university-wide committee of students, faculty, administration and alumni, Hampton teaches English, Journalism and rhetoric. His specialties are British and American literature and the romantic poets.

The university's first research excellence award will go to Arun K. Roy of Rochester Hills, professor of biological sciences. Roy was chosen by the University Research Committee for his original contributions to biomedical sciences and for expanding scientific knowledge in the area of hormone action.
