

Quakers Consider New Group

After 100 years the Quakers are considering reorganizing the old Farmington Meeting of the Society of Friends as a worship-study group.

Depending on the amount of interest, the Quakers will arrange a series of lectures and workshops on behalf of peace and improved race relations open to people of all denominations.

Friends were active at the Farmington festival in circulating a petition calling for an end to the draft. Another possible activity could be a three-day program paralleling the Founders Days Festival next year.

Interested persons may contact Ruth Hancock at 9640 Sorrento, Detroit, Mich. 48227.

Temple Begins New Series

Commemorating the 1900th anniversary of the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem, to be observed Aug. 11, Rabbi Ernst Conrad plans a series of talks placing the Temple and the city of Jerusalem in historical perspective.

The series will begin on Aug. 7 at 8:30 p.m. in the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Lone Pine and Woodward, with a talk on the meaning of Jewish history.

Rabbi Conrad will deal with the manner in which Judaism's growth from a sacrificial cult centered around a small town and territory appears in the light of the universal teaching of the prophets.

Church Holds Rummage Sale

The Sacred Heart Byzantine Catholic Church, 29125 W. Six Mile in Livonia, will sponsor a rummage and bake goods sale on Aug. 8 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The sale will feature a white elephant booth and a bake goods booth along with back-to-school clothes for children, sports equipment, furniture and household items.

Ex-Addicts Launch Stay-Off-Drugs Aid

Can addicts be set permanently free from their compulsive dependence on drugs?

Seymour Feiner and Jerry Stephens, both former addicts, think it can be done, and they are getting a chance to prove it.

They will realize their dream of establishing a "therapeutic residential community" for drug addicts with the opening of the first SHAR (Self-Help Addiction Rehabilitation) House in mid-August in a 20-room Victorian mansion at 8344 East Jefferson, Detroit.

Feiner and Stephens joined with Fr. Daniel Kuchars, associate pastor of St. Agnes parish, who founded SHAR more than a year ago. They have been trying for the last 18 months to establish their "therapeutic residential community."

They want to support ex-addicts in the struggle to free themselves permanently. They know how difficult the road back can be.

"DRUG ADDICTION is one of the most terrible problems confronting this nation today," they declare. "We know we can help. We know that it is much easier to get off drugs than to stay off. The percentage of relapses is high. We want to help addicts to kick the habit and then we want to support them through the crucial months in which they are fighting to stay off drugs."

They propose to do this through a combination of means, including the use of Methadone and the achieving of basic changes in the addict's life-style through group influence, counseling and self-discipline.

THE PROBLEM of drug addiction is big but nobody knows just how big. Official counts list 2,000 to 3,000 heroin addicts in Detroit. Feiner and Stephens put the number at more than 15,000.

They plan to treat 15 addicts in the beginning at SHAR House. They know that this is only a drop in the bucket, but they hope SHAR House may serve as a pilot project to point the way toward a massive attack on a major problem.

They are making a start with a grant of $24,205 from the Archdiocesan Development Fund, but they need more donations and, especially, volunteer aides.

St. Thomas Catholic Church, Evergreen near Ford Road, Detroit, will stage its annual Run-O-Rama from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, Aug. 14, and from 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16. In addition to games and refreshments, a chicken dinner will be served Sunday.

Lutherans Plan Vacation School

Prince of Peace Lutheran Church at 2000 New Market Rd., Farmington, will open its vacation Bible School to all children from 7 1/2 years of age to 12 years of age during the coming sixth grade. The school will be from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m. each weekday from Aug. 3 to 14.

HELPING TO "open windows for the blind," Betty Shore carefully checks her work on a third grade reader. Mrs. Shore took the transcribing class through Temple Beth El in Detroit and now spends her leisure time making master copies of printed materials for the blind. (Observer photo)

Braille Transcribing Is Rewarding Service

Betty Shore of Livonia has found a fulfilling type of volunteer work that she can do in her own home in her leisure time.

She is one of the growing number of housewives who take a break from their household to transcribe books and other printed materials for the blind.

Mrs. Shore describes her work as fulfilling for herself and at the same time a help to someone else. "Because my time is so precious, it had to be something worthwhile to me," she said.

AFTER TAKING a course in transcribing into Braille through Temple Beth El in Detroit, Mrs. Shore transcribed a manuscript and sent it to the Library of Congress to get her certification.

Since then the mother of three has been busy "helping open a window for the blind" by transcribing letters, bulletins and a book.

The books are transcribed into Braille on a miniature machine resembling a typewriter but with just six keys. All the words, numbers and punctuation are a combination of these dots. Once a master copy is made the books are duplicated and bound by women donating their time through the Temple.

THE APPROXIMATELY nine-month course is due to start again in September with classes meeting once a week in the morning in Carl Sandburg Library in Livonia. It is open to women of all denominations who receive their instruction, materials and transcribing machine free of charge.

Once the woman is certified she joins the Sisterhood of Temple Beth El enabling her to receive all her materials free and use the transcribing machine at home.

Two meetings a year keep the women attuned to the latest changes or additions to the Braille system.

Women interested in signing up for the fall class, call Natalie Linkin at 626-3377.

William D. Mercer, Senior Minister, and Robert C. Schaefer, Minister of Music, will be the guest speakers at the church's annual service on Sunday, Aug. 9, at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

St. Matthew's United Methodist Church, 30900 Six Mile Road, will hold a Sunday School service at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 9.

Worship Service and Church School (third through sixth grade) will be held at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 9.

Rice Memorial United Methodist Church, 3543-5353, will hold a Sunday School service at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 9.

St. Thomas Catholic Church, Evergreen near Ford Road, Detroit, will stage its annual Run-O-Rama from 6 to 10 p.m. Friday, Aug. 14, and from 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16. In addition to games and refreshments, a chicken dinner will be served Sunday.

$42,000 Given To Help Fight Against Poverty

John Cardinal Dearden has authorized four grants totaling $42,000 to groups seeking to solve problems of poverty areas. The grants brought to over $900,000 expenditures made from the special 1968 Archdiocesan Development Fund (ADF) collection in which Catholics earmarked $1 million for creative attacks on urban and poverty problems.

One grant is to be shared by two activities of Self-Help Addiction Rehabilitation (SHAR), which believes it has scored a breakthrough in helping drug victims. The other three were concerned with attacks on community problems in Detroit and Adrian.

Since the 1968 collection, more than 30 endeavors have been aided, almost all with the aim of providing pilot projects that could be imitated by other groups seeking to break the poverty cycle at its source.

Cardinal Dearden authorized the following: • A grant of $24,205 to Self-Help Addiction Rehabilitation (SHAR), 7601 Twelfth St. The money will go both to SHAR House, Inc., a half-way treatment center oriented to drug addicts who wish to help cure themselves, and to SHAR Understanding, Inc., an educational program designed, through the use of publicity and other means, to induce the community to adopt SHAR techniques for aiding those with the drug habit.

It is claimed SHAR techniques show a greater return for energy expended than any other method of aiding drug addicts. The SHAR technique includes initial treatment under skilled medical control with Methadone, use of qualified volunteers to counsel and to marshal restorative resources, and vocational training followed by job placement.

Doctors of medicine and the World United Medical Relief Organization, along with several governmental health and legal branches, are involved in the technique.

A grant of $9,000 to the Adrian Community Action Center in Lenawee County to carry on a program which earlier had been financed with a $18,000 grant. A primary aim of the center is to arrange permanent employment, decent housing and practical educational advantages for the disadvantaged of Lenawee County — particularly 2,000 Latin-Americans and 200 black families.

A total of 71 services were provided with the aid of the previous grant, and these will now be expanded. These included low-cost housing, adult education, referral to employers, home economics programs, supplying of food, clothing and furniture to those in need, liaison between those in need and governmental agencies, and medical referrals.

The center was set up in 1968 by the St. Vincent de Paul Society of Lenawee County, originally using funds contributed through the archdiocese's in-parish sharing program.

• A grant of $5,000 for Operation Help, an organization which since 1966 has been getting jobs for persons usually considered unemployable because of lack of education, criminal records or physical handicaps.

In a typical year Operation Help managed to place 2,091 of 3,606 "unemployable" persons referred to it. The organization's services include job counseling and job orientation.

Operation Help's founder, William L. Moody, said an increasing number of referrals, primarily from judges, is severely straining facilities. The ADF grant will permit Moody to maintain his efforts while seeking additional support from other sources.

• A grant of $5,000 to United Community (UNICOM), of 819 Puritan, which since 1967 has been at work in Northwest Detroit to help meet a variety of problems brought by a change of a predominantly white area to one shared by middle-class whites and blacks and by "grass roots" blacks.
