Madonna plans opera workshop

Madonna College in Livonia has been awarded a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts to sponsor a one-day workshop, "Overture to the Opera," on Saturday, Jan. 19.

The goals and activities of the workshop will be related to teachers, volunteers and others working with handicapped students. Its object will be to teach appreciation of opera and the understanding of teaching concepts within the special education area.

The fee for the workshop, including lunch and opera ticket, is $15. Continuing education units are available. For information or registration, contact the college's Office of Continuing Education at 591-5188.

CONSISTING OF two sessions, one dealing with the importance of the arts for all people and the other with a description of how opera performances are interpreted, the workshop will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. with a performance of the opera, "Municiana of Bremen," scheduled 3:30-5 p.m. in the Kresge Lecture Hall.

Both the workshop and the opera performance are produced by the Michigan Opera Theater.

"Municiana of Bremen" is considered to be an especially suitable vehicle for imparting artistic appreciation to handicapped students. The story concerns animals who think they have no musical potential but are encouraged and achieve happiness and success.

Madonna faculty members John Ray and Mary Wells will be available at the workshop as interpreters, as well as to interpret the opera itself for the hearing impaired. Five youngsters also will be invited to participate in the performance as part of the presentation. Teaching guides and the music will be on hand.
