Something To Think About

BOB ROCK

DIRECTOR

THE RELIGIOUS COMPONENT

The funeral service fulfills a wide variety of important functions and needs. More than ever before, people are recognizing and appreciating the positive psychological and social aspects of the funeral. At the same time, even those who practice their faith may be losing sight of the additional factors which a religious funeral can provide.

It has been well established that the funeral helps people work out their emotions rather than denying them. While it is a time for facing reality, the funeral also affirms the validity of grief and profound feeling.

The religious funeral gives the members of the religious community a chance to give evidence of their emotional and spiritual support of the bereaved. It is also a time when the affirmation of faith is often best felt and expressed.
