Opportunities for sharing in television programming are expanding. Metrovision has delivered suitcase studio production packages to our city governments. Interested government staff shall also be taught how to produce a television show and correctly use the equipment. We are very excited for this will make the flow of information and understanding about local government services even more readily available. Alert to graduates of the studio and remote workshops of 1984... please review your past activity in production and crewing... for very soon you will have to take a refresher course if you have not been active. Without practice on the equipment, which is achieved by volunteering, the knowledge dwindles and usage becomes very difficult cause ing too many mistakes. Please let us know that you are available to help out. On Tuesday evening Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. "Insight" with Fred Lichtenman will feature a family of producers named The Family of Seven. They have been producing shows which reflect their message through the use of puppets because their ideas are different from the masses their messages have frequently been misinterpreted and are considered controversial.

Following "Insight" there will be a documentary on the Family of Seven. This has been produced by David Tietmeyer, entitled "Puppets We Have Seen." Concluding the evening will be one of their shows. SWOCC would like to welcome new intern Stella Menton of Farmington Hills. Stella is attending Oakland University as a journalism major. Her responsibilities will be to help coordinate the Spring Newsletter, research the trades and prepare Producer Profiles for the media.

Special congratulations to SWOCC intern, Todd Whitman. He has been hired by the City of Novi to head up a six-month project to pilot the governmental involvement with community video programming. Thank you Novi for being so very progressive and supportive of this marvelous communication tool.
