Sidewalk plan ∷is mystifying

To the colltor:

As the winter progresses, I am having more and more difficulty with the reasoning behind much of the sidewalk replacement that is conducted in Farmington every summer.

We had to have a nice 10-inch-thick piece replaced by a 6-inch-thick piece replaced by a 6-inch-thick piece replaced by a 6-inch-thick piece are title was pitted and thus deemed a "trip hazard." This would raise the strong possibility of a lawsuit should someone fall in front of our home, so we were told by the city.

.Editorial

Trant is our money. God did not send in a work of the contract printing. Why No Outery for Dog's Victinu (Jan. 21).
Too many papers have been printing the King Boots story, making him into a media star rather than a murderer,
But what about Gertruce Monroo? Are we putting the life of a dog over that of a human? As the article pointed out, what if the victim had been a child? Or what If he killed a popular honor studeat?
The owner insists her mother died of a heart attack. In any case I feel that letting a dog live that probably killed a human, regardless of who that person
was, Is a disgrace to our legal system
and to our human morals.

Youth center is welcomed

IN THE spirit of positive coopera-tion, parents are frequently in the classrooms presenting seminars, acting as listeners, helping with group work and generally enriching the curricu-lum, all at the requests of teachers. Our staff is receptive to innovation and there is an open, honest exchange of ideas.

Our general feeling is that Forest provides an excellent learning atmos-HAIR STYLES OF THE :80s seldom is an article written lately that favors raccoons and such except for their skins which are used to grace the shoulders of a "fashionable" member of marking.

there same the state of a "fashlonable" memoer of mankind.

As a licensed animal technician, I have raised countiess wild animal orphans, and I feel nature intended us to share this planet with all her creatures. Since we all struggle to survive daily, we should learn to understand the fellowship we share with all species. I guess I just wanted to thank you for an article that was informative and one that promoted compassion and understanding instead of apathy and cruelly, Sylvia M. Ball Milford, Mil.

To the editor:

I would like to respond to your artil would like to respond to your article and telephone questionnaire regarding a teacher transferring in the middle of the year. As was stated in the artidib. year. As was stated in the artibed respond to the contract with the contract with the stated
was the fact that this is a legitimate,
mormal, and toglead contract provision.

Most districts around us have this right, as do our neighbors and friends who work in other professions. It is not and should not be unusual for a teacher to have the same rights which other people have. A job becomes vacant and ror any number of reasons a teacher decides that he/she would like to make a career move to another building. There is nothing wrong with this.

The children may have to adjust to a now teacher, but if their parents agreement proach the situation in a positive manner, this could turn out to be a growing reprehence for their children. There are very few occasions when green the distinct the case in question, as a reason for concern, but there is not.

What we have are a few teachers extended the control of the children are very resilient and will the having too many students in the class.
