

Public TV names fund chairwoman

Cherri Fulton of Farmington Hills has been named area chairwoman in Farmington and Farmington Hills for the 17th annual Channel 56 Auction, which airs April 12-20 on WTVS/Detroit.

"With over 9,000 items needed to make this a successful fund-raiser for Detroit Public Television, I'm going to need a lot of help from volunteers and merchants in our community," says Fulton. "Right now, I'm looking for more volunteers to act as Go-Getters, canvassing area businesses for Auction items. This work can be done day or evening in many cases and gives the volunteer valuable business and communications skills. It's also a good way to make business contacts in the community."

Fulton is also coordinating the effort to encourage donations from area merchants. Goods and services donated to the Auction should be brand new and valued at $50 or more. Almost any type of item can be donated including appliances, sports equipment, toys, clothes and furniture. To donate or volunteer, call Auction Central at 878-7200.

In addition to acting as area chair for Farmington and Farmington Hills, Fulton is running the Sal Magundi Board at this year's Auction. She has been an Auction volunteer for 15 years and is active in other station events. She is president of Women's Exchange Network, an organization for career-oriented women. Fulton is employed by Stoffel Corp. as a sales representative.

This year's Auction Host is WOMC's Tom Ryan. He'll be portraying the character "Illinois Smith," a take-off on the movie's Indiana Jones, in carrying out the Auction theme, Auction Adventure, Chapter 17.

Last year's Auction raised $827,700 for Detroit Public Television, or about 11 percent of Channel 56's operating budget. The Auction helps make possible such programs as "Masterpiece Theatre," "Sesame Street" and local programs like "Both Sides Now," "Friday Night Special" and "Detroit Black Journal."

Cherri Fulton of Farmington Hills joins WOMC's Tom Ryan, this year's auction host, in volunteering for the Channel 56 Auction Adventure. Fulton is the area chair for Farmington and Farmington Hills. She will coordinate volunteer efforts in canvassing area businesses for merchandise donations. The auction will air April 12-20.

Cardiologist discusses treatment of heart

Dr. Joshua Wynne, chief of cardiology at Harper-Grace Hospitals, will explain new developments in the treatment of heart disease at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the Southfield Civic Center.

The two-hour program is free of charge to the public, but preregistration is required by calling 494-8993 or 354-4864.

Wynne will provide information on new types of surgery and drugs related to the treatment of heart disease and will review some of the conventional ways of avoiding heart disease.

Wynne recently came to Detroit from Harvard Medical School to develop and expand the cardiology program at Harper-Grace Hospitals and Wayne State University.

He is professor of internal medicine and chief of the division of cardiology at Wayne State University School of Medicine. In addition to caring for patients, Dr. Wynne participated in medical education and research.
