

College offers career help

High school students and adults planning to re-enter the work force or start their own business are invited to Schoolcraft College's Career Opportunity Day on Wednesday, April 24.

Attorney Mark Ellis, funeral director John Santileu and Fern Baum, a telecommunications worker, are just a few of the more than 100 professionals scheduled to speak.

"This is the largest scale project we've ever undertaken," said Sylvia Vukmirovich, general chairman. "We've gone beyond our five-district area and invited participation from schools in other communities. It's also for our own students and anyone in the community."

Working professionals from fields as varied as engineering to restaurant and hotel management will address the conference, which is free.

Information will be available about careers in fine arts, writing and communications, engineering, skilled trades and technical fields, retail business, computers, health fields, the military, criminal justice, and hotel and restaurant management.

Special panels are scheduled throughout the day. All sessions will be conducted on campus, at 18000 Hagerty, between Six Mile and Seven Mile, Livonia.

Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert will answer questions about communications 9-11 a.m. in the gym.

Judy Sternberg, a counselor at Livonia's Whitman Center, will offer two sessions on resume writing and job hunting tips 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 to noon.

"Personal experiences of returning to school as an adult" is the topic of a session being conducted by a re-entry panel from the Schoolcraft Women's Resource Center.

"HOW TO START a small business" will feature tips from Sharon Snodgrass, a board member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, and Donna Johnson, a certified public accountant, as well as small business owners. The session is slated 2-2:45 p.m.

"We get lots of requests from people who want to start their own business," Vukmirovich said.

Immediately following the session, 3-4 p.m., participants can learn how to use a computer in small business. Included will be demonstrations and discussion, learning about spreadsheets, data base and word processing.

Evening sessions begin at 6:30 p.m. with "Jobs of the future," a seminar conducted by David Smith, past president of the Metro Detroit Future Society and an educator.

"David Smith was a keynote speaker a couple years back when we hosted a future jobs conference and his talk was great, right on target," Vukmirovich said.

Muirhead's of Dearborn will present a fashion show at 7 p.m., highlighting the dress-for-success look for both men and women, old and young in the job force.

Jackie Lichty, a marketing representative for 3M Corp., will present the final session of the day on job hunting at 8 p.m.

Schoolcraft students art work will be on display all day in the Forum building. A huge tent will be set up near the gym with food available at moderate prices, according to Vukmirovich.

Computer demonstrations will be given throughout the day. Other highlights include demonstrations of military maneuvers by the Eastern Michigan University ROTC and films about cosmetology, nursing and the post office will be shown.

The conference has been planned by a 20-member committee from the college's admissions and career planning and placement departments. As many as 5,000 students are expected to attend.

Child ID program launched at supermarket

Pepsi-Cola Bottlers of Michigan will kick off the New Generation Child Identification Program at the Farmer Jack store at 23391 Farmington Road in Farmington on Saturday and Sunday, April 13-14.

The fifteen week program is co-sponsored by WDIV-TV, Borman's and the Michigan Jaycee Chapter.

Between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m., a parent/sponsor can bring their child to the Farmington Farmer Jack store and register for a Child Identification Card.

Two copies of the ID, which includes the child's name and 10 fingerprints, will be given to the parent/sponsor and the child.

According to Michigan law enforcement officials, over 4,000 Michigan children are missing.

Nationally, over 1.8 million children are reported missing each year. With a child's fingerprints and recent photo on record, parents can use the identification card to help search for a missing child.
