

Western rules WLAA

By Chris McCosky
staff writer

Most expected the Western Lakes Activities Association girls track and field meet Wednesday to bolt down to a Plymouth Canton-Plymouth Salem duel. After all, Canton was the Western Division and Salem the Lakes Division during the WLAA dual meet season.

And, in fact, Canton and Salem had quite a battle at the league meet Wednesday — but the battle ended up being for second place.

Walled Lake Western, a mild surprise, won the meet scoring 80 points. Canton and Northville (a major surprise) pulled in second with 76 points each. Salem took fourth with 71.

"We gave it a good shot," said Canton coach Bob Richardson. "The girls were close. We were nipped at the string a couple of times."

WESTERN SCORED in all but three events, winning the 100-meter dash, 400 relay and the 200 dash. Michelle Jablonski figured in 30 of the 80 points winning the 100 (12.89), the 200 (29.93) and anchoring the 400 relay (51.8).

Northville was paced by Cindy Panowicz who captured the 100 intermediate hurdles (15.0), 200 low hurdles (44.03, tying her own league mark) and anchored the 800 relay (1:46.1 a league record). Karen Stinson won the 400 (1:00.7).

Canton scored points in all but five events and established three school records and a meet record. Angie Miller, Marie Jarosz, Rachel Mann and Karen Boluch went 9:54.9 in the 3,200 relay, bettering Farmington Harrison's league mark of 10:42.9 set last year.

Miller, a freshman, won the high jump with a 5-0.

Canton, as Richardson said, was in-

girls track

deed nipped at the wire:

• In the mile, Salem's Denise Durrer crossed first with a 5:22.8. Church Hill's Karen Kantor and Karen Jarosz then crossed at 5:24.1 — Kantor's lungs earned second place.

• In the 200, Kim Bennett finished 0.7 behind Jablonski.

• In the 800 relay, Canton missed second place by .1.

• In the 1,600 relay, Canton lost to Northville at the string by .01.

"WHEN YOU come that close, and you were favored coming in, it's a bit disappointing," Richardson said. "But, there's been a lot more satisfaction than disappointment this season."

Durrer was a double winner for Salem. The talented senior won the 800 run (2:22.8) as well as the 1,600. Heidi Dupret placed second in the 800 (2:25.0).

Karen Marcinak earned Salem 10 first-place points with a 112.44 toss in the discus. Kristen Hostynski placed second in the 100 hurdles (16.2) and third in the 300 hurdles (48.9).

Other winners in the meet were Karen Kantor, Livonia Churchill, in the 3,200 (12:12.8); Amy Rozman, Livonia Stevenson, in the long jump (15:10); Ann Liija, Walled Lake Central, in the shot put (34-14).

Wenson aids Wolves' cause

Injuries have ruined many a fine baseball team's seasons, but seldom has a single injury caused as much damage as one did to the University of Michigan this season.

The Wolverines were the pride of the Big Ten, ranked as high as fourth in the nation. But star hurler Scott Kamieniecki went down with a sore arm, and with him went Michigan's post-season hopes.

Losing a top pitcher is devastating enough, but the timing couldn't have been worse for the Wolverines. Kamieniecki went out at the beginning of May, just prior to the Big Ten and NCAA tournaments. And in tournament play, where a team often must play four or five games in a three-day stretch, pitching depth is vital.

MICHIGAN WAS ousted from the Big Ten tournament but earned an at-large berth to the NCAA's. Asked to fill Kamieniecki's role was freshman Mike Ignasiak, an Orchard Lake St. Mary's graduate.

Ignasiak started Michigan's regional opener May 24 against host team New Orleans, a game the Wolverines lost 12-10 in 13 innings. It was a heartbreaking defeat, an eight-run rally in the ninth inning that tied the score and was wasted. Ignasiak was out of the game by that time. He hurled the first six innings and gave up all 10 runs, but only five were earned.

Michigan's fortunes turned sour when New Orleans scored six runs in the sixth, five unearned. New Orleans had the bases loaded with two out and only one run in when second baseman C.J. Besheke batted a ground ball. That opened the gates for New Orleans.

IT PROVED to be an omen of things to come. The Wolverines were faced with the task of winning four straight games. They beat West Virginia 9-2, Michigan 11-6 and Mississippi State 14-6, but fell one win shy of qualifying for the college World Series when they lost to Mississippi State in the finals 19-8. Michigan finished with a 55-10 mark, the most wins in school history.

A staff of tired arms was the Wolverines downfall. Ignasiak came back on one day of rest to earn a victory in Michigan's win over Mississippi State. The right-hander tossed the final seven innings in relief, allowing one run, four hits and eight walks.

Ignasiak finished the season with a 9-2 record, including two complete-game shutouts and four saves. His 3.43 earned run average was best among regular pitchers, and his performance earned him the Geoff Zahn Award as the Wolverines' best pitcher.

BESHEKE, A SENIOR team co-captain and a Birmingham Section graduate, enjoyed a spectacular season but a mediocre tournament. He had two hits and drove in a run in Michigan's win over New Orleans and had a hit, scored two runs and collected the game-winning RBI against Mississippi State.

But for the tournament, Besheke went four-for-20 and committed three errors after making just three all season. He finished the season with a .361 average and 13 doubles, three triples and seven homers, 40 runs scored and 43 RBI.

A trio of other Wolverines with local ties aided Michigan's cause. Greg Everson became the team's stopper out of the bullpen, acting as a team recycler for appearances in a season with 2-4. The Livonia Bentley graduate went 2-4 with a team-leading six saves and a 4.69 ERA.

A junior transfer from Michigan-Dearborn, Everson pitched 141 innings in the Wolverines win over Mississippi State, surrendering two hits, two walks and an earned run. He also allowed two earned runs in Michigan's season-ending loss to Mississippi State.

PAUL WENSON, a sophomore from Farmington, pitched 141 innings in the Wolverines win over New Orleans and 1/3 of an inning in the loss to Mississippi State. He did not allow a run and finished the season with a 2-0 record in 22 1/3 innings with 20 strikeouts and a 6.34 ERA.

Karl Zimmerman, a junior and a Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook alumnus, had five hits in 16 trips and two RBI during the tournament, including a solo homer in the loss to Mississippi State. Zimmerman, who played the outfield most of the season, finished with a .287 average with six doubles, three triples, four homers and 19 RBI for the season.

Paul Kasper, another Orchard Lake St. Mary's grad, hurt his arm while pitching against the University of Detroit April 10 and never returned. Too bad.

Kasper, a sophomore, was designated to be the Wolverines' long reliever. When he went out, he was 2-0 and had not given up an earned run in 12 innings.

Pitching like that is what Michigan sorely needed last weekend.
