

Faces of the Fest

Shivly the clown, really local Jaycee Tom Shliven, helped make the children laugh.

Faces come in all sorts of sizes and shapes at the Farmington which came to visit. That's Erica Brown who is about to place the Founder's Festival as is demonstrated by the starry-eyed macaw big bird on the arm of Billy Moore.

Pairing off for the fun at the Farmington Founders' Festival were, above, Heather and Jesse Benda who enjoyed the canoe ride. Another kind of pairing was shown by, below, Christine Compton and Larry Kowalki who were part of the fashion show put on by the Community Living Center.

This pretty face, last year's Miss Farmington Mary Chris Porter, showed her singing talent at this year's Miss Farmington scholarship pageant.

Crafts and those who make them always are a big part of the festivities. This concentrated face is none other than Gordon Key, who is working with a blow torch and glass. He was one of the many exhibitors in the downtown center under the tent.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

Big trouble: high blood pressure that affects one in four adults today. But it's often dangerously symptom-free. Which means nearly 37 million Americans have an increased risk of cardiovascular problems. Without realizing it.

Your contribution to the American Heart Association supports research into the causes and treatment of hypertension. It's an investment in helping millions recognize the importance of having their blood pressure checked regularly and learn how to control it. For longer, healthier lives.

And when finding trouble has that kind of happy ending, we'll be looking for a lot more.
