

neighbors on cable

By Lark Samouelian
special writer

While you were vacationing, many of your neighbors have appeared to us in the video moving business as they were continually hauling television equipment in and out of their cars.

Our Channel 12 schedule is beginning to show the fruits of their labor.

This week, one may learn how paint with an impressionistic flair; actually follow the specific techniques involved with windsurfing; update your understanding of what your local government has planned for your community; and how you may share in the process; as well as be entertained by your children, pets and the professionals in the area.

Your local channels as with your local newspapers are the one place you can slice through tons of red tape and have a definite impact on enhancing the world we live in.

AS YOU are watching our Channel 12 try to see how much you really know about how a television segment is coordinated through your perceptions.

How many people do you think participated in what do you think they did? Were there more than one or two cameras? Was the lighting effective or what would you have tried? Did the host ask the guests interesting questions?

Were you about to ask the same question yourself? Did the program have an impact on your views? When you changed the channel or turned the set off, how did you feel? Call us and talk to us. The opportunities are yours just for the asking.
