crime watch

The following column is the fourth in a series written for the Farmington Observer by Chris Cogor, a technician with the Farmington Hills Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit.

After-the-fact reaction to criminal activity is not enough. Doing something after a burglary occurs is as frustrating to the police as it is for those who have been victimized.

Many burglaries remain unsolved and, even if the perpetrator of the crime is apprehended, it does not completely compensate for the invasion of privacy, loss of a victim's possessions, or the damages resulting from a break-in. Since burglary is a crime of opportunity, reducing those opportunities is the most practical approach to prevention. The majority of security deficiencies can be corrected easily and inexpensively.

THE FARMINGTON Hills Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit offers information and instruction to community members in analyzing their security weaknesses through the Residential and Commercial Security Survey Program.

These surveys, available free of charge, provide an invaluable community service by evaluating potential security risks and recommending measures which can be implemented to reduce those risks.

If you would like to take advantage of this free program, please complete the following form and return it to the Farmington Hills Police Department. Appointments can also be arranged by calling the Crime Prevention Unit at 474-6181, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., weekdays.
