

Salem is no cinch to win WLAA tennis title

By Chris McCook
staff writer

"Don't hand the Western Lakes tennis title over to Plymouth Salem just yet. Although the Rocks are undefeated and a heavy favorite to come away with the championship at the league tennis meet Wednesday, the feat is no lead-cinch."

Going into league meet, Salem is on top of the Western Lakes Division with an 11-0 record. The Rocks are also leading in the overall league dual meet standings which will count 50 percent towards the league title. Plymouth Canton, 9-1, is on top of the Western Division and runner-up overall.

"It's going to be hard to beat Salem in Nos. 1-3 singles," said North Farmington coach Norm Stanzewski. "For anyone else to win it, they are going to have to take No. 4 singles and all three doubles."

Enter Livonia Stevenson, the league's third best team overall in the dual meet season.

"THE SPARTANS have the three premier doubles teams in the conference. Laurie Lenox and Tanya Petushoff at

No. 1, Susan Ting and Kelly Cascardi at No. 2, and Emily Snow and Mary Pelloni at No. 3 have yet to lose a league doubles match.

"We definitely have to sweep doubles and pick up as many points as possible in singles," said Spartans' coach George Croll.

The key event will be in singles which will be extremely tough. Plymouth's Wendy Gillies, Anita Toth and Lisa Belsky have not been beaten in league play. Gillies and Toth have not as much as dropped a set.

No. 4 singles will be No. 4 singles. Salem's Missy Smith has played extremely well since taking over the No. 4 role midway through the season.

OTHERS in contention for the No. 4 singles medal are Canton's Pam Pelloni, North's Monique Baker, Livonia Churchill's Brenda Carman and Walled Lake Western's Tracy Thomas.

The division meets are set for Tuesday with the Lakes playing at Walled Lake Central and the Western at Plymouth-Canton's Centennial Educational Park. The survivors of the two divisional meets will square off at CEP Wednesday in the Western Lakes finals.

Rocks put hammer to North

By C.J. Risk

staff writer

Sometimes a game's just gotta be played.

However the players, coaches, fans, officials, etc., feel, the game must go on because the contract's been signed.

Last Thursday, Plymouth Canton's girls' basketball team was in just such a position. The Rocks were coming off a 45-35 victory over state-ranked Farmington Hills Mercury Tuesday, a game that was emotionally draining.

And, as any stonecutter can attest, you can only squeeze so much emotion out of a Rock.

"WE PUT a lot of energy into Tuesday's game," admitted Salem coach Fred Thomann Thursday. "We knew we'd have a tough time getting up for tonight's game. But the game was on schedule, and you've got to play them."

"But we knew we'd have to work our way through it."

The team Thomann's Rocks worked through North Farmington — wasn't any happier about the scheduling, particularly coming apart 41-13 on Salem's court.

Putting it bluntly, neither team was sharp offensively. Both teams had sparred defensively. In the end, Salem had more of everything.

"We don't have a good scoring team," said North coach Greg Grodzicki. "We don't have the scoring punch from our guards that we've had in the past. We've got to work the ball inside to Heather (McPhillips)."

"We've just got to hope the other team makes mistakes, and Salem isn't the type of team to make many."

THE ROCKS made a few, but their arsenal was too potent for the Raiders. Salem scored the game's first six points, had an 11-2 lead after one quarter, and zoomed to a 21-7 halftime advantage — accomplishing all this in spite of nine-for-34 floor shooting in the first half (26 percent).

"We had great scoring opportunities," said Thomann. "We didn't hit our shots, but at least we were getting them. There are going to be nights when the shots aren't going to drop. That's why you have to play good, solid defense."

North's zone defense was fairly effective, falling only to neutralize Salem's superior board strength. Denn

Head slipped inside the Raiders' box-out efforts to snare offensive rebounds, giving the Rocks two, three and at times four shots at the basket.

That power around the basket was lacking from North's offense. McPhillips was all the Raiders had under the basket, and in the face of the Rock defensive mauling, she wasn't enough.

Balls were knocked loose frequently. North committed 26 turnovers — and were quickly swallowed up by Salem defenders.

AND YET, the Raiders never lagged on defense. "I don't think they broke on us much," said Grodzicki, who throughout the game urged his Raiders to drop "back into the paint" on defense.

"We only gave up 21 points in the first half," the North coach pointed out. "I was real satisfied with our defense. But I can't believe we only scored seven . . ."

With lead the Raider coach shrugged. McPhillips was his leading scorer with seven points. No one else had more than two.

Head's relentless play harvested her 10 points. Stacy Sovine contributed nine points and Jessica Handley chipped in with eight.

Hughes sparkles but Hawks' losing skid grows

Plymouth Canton's girls basketball team has already proven it can handle the upper echelon of the Western Lakes Western Division. Now it is taking after the lower rung.

Thursday night, the Chiefs (9-0) hammered Farmington Harrison 69-20 (0-0).

"We've played two teams now that haven't won and got through them," said Canton coach Rob Neu. "We worked on things we needed to work on, and we concentrated on execution."

Vicki Ferko led the Chiefs with 13 points. Beth Frigge added 12 and Dianna Knickerbocker 10. Lori Schauder chipped in nine.

Harrison got a splendid effort from Jennifer Hughes. Hughes, a solid three-point athlete, scored 15 of Harrison's 20 points.

The Hawks have now lost 48 consecutive games.

against a good team to get back on track.

The Marlins (3-0 in the Catholic League, 6-7 overall) got that Thursday at Birmingham Marian.

Down 21-20 at half, Mercy ripped off a 17-9 third-quarter spurt to assume control of its Catholic League foe.

The Raiders came off the bench to spark the Marlins with 15 points and 10 rebounds.

She and Missy Duczynski teamed to shut down Marian's 6-3 center Kathy Phillips. Phillips finished with 12 points but scored only three field goals.

Yvette Mason added 13 to the Marlins cause.

Marian is 0-2 in the league and 3-5 overall.

STEVENSON ST, FARMINGTON 40: Speaking of losing streaks: The Falcons have now lost eight straight this season.

Stevenson (4-5 in the Western Lakes, 3-6 overall) got a 30-point, 11-rebound performance from Kelly Kowalski. Sue Zatorski chipped in 12 points, eight rebounds and five assists.
