

Ocelot spikers win own tourney

The spikers aren't threatening, warning opponents to be wary when they approach the net. The power at the net doesn't force the opposition to adjust, to keep the ball away from a certain player because she can put it away with authority.

Even the serves aren't impossible to handle. Like the hitting, they're good, perhaps a bit better than average.

So why is Schoolcraft College's volleyball team 27-7, with victories over a bundle of four-year schools and, on Saturday, a win over the top-rated junior college team in the state?

Defense and consistency, that's why. The Ocelots make few mistakes. What they do is outlast their opposition.

"Our hitting average is not very high," admitted Schoolcraft coach Tom Teeters. "In fact, I'll bet it's among the lowest in our region. But when they block us it's no error because we get it back up. Our hitters aren't afraid to go after it. They keep hitting until it drops or goes off a block and out of bounds."

SUCCESS IS DIFFICULT to argue with, and Teeters' strategy has been just that. The Ocelots emerged from Saturday's Schoolcraft Invitational with five straight wins and their second championship in three tournaments (they were second in the other). In pool play, Schoolcraft defeated Kalamazoo Valley CC 15-2, 15-4; Moit CC 15-5, 15-9; and Lansing CC 15-1, 9. In 15, 15-9. Lansing was the top-ranked JC team in the state, but exceptional play from Kim Relyea (from Livonia Stevenson) and Ann Bennett, each with 11 kills, and Sue Cyrus (Garden

Schoolcraft sports

City), with eight kills, sparked the triumph.

The Ocelots faced Henry Ford CC in the semifinals and won 15-7, 15-8. Linda Loeffler (Stevenson) had two aces among her nine serves. Bennett added five kills and Relyea four in the win.

This advanced Schoolcraft into the final opportunity of Windsor, the only four-year school in the eight-team tournament. It took a come-from-behind effort to win, 13-15, 13-15, 15-11.

In the second game, Schoolcraft trailed 9-0 and 11-2 before mounting its comeback. Cyrus was instrumental, serving for 12 straight points. She also collected 11 kills in the match, while Relyea had 12.

Setters Paul Kocicki (North Farmington) and Loeffler were flawless throughout the tournament.

ON TUESDAY, Schoolcraft turned back visiting Henry Ford in a conference match, 15-13, 15-14, 15-11, 15-10. Relyea led the way with 21 kills, while Cyrus added 15.

Loeffler, normally a setter, posted a 90 percent accuracy on attacks. Relyea made only one serve reception error in 25 attempts.

Schoolcraft, 5-0 in conference play, travels Thursday night to meet Macomb.

Rochester bags state crown

Rochester High School's boys golf team traveled to East Lansing Friday morning to get in a few practice rounds in preparation for Saturday's big Class A tournament.

The team was a washout, as rain postponed the tournament. The Falcons returned to Rochester Saturday afternoon then headed back to East Lansing early Monday for their 10 a.m. tee off at the par-71 Forest Acres Golf Course on the Michigan State University campus.

It turned out to be well worth the wait.

Rochester, turning in a sensational 307 team score, walked away with its first Class A boys golf title in the school's history after winning the annual Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) tournament by seven strokes. It was the lowest winning state-meet score since Lansing Eastern won with a 305 in 1979.

Livonia Churchill was second at 314, followed by defending state champion Birmingham Brother Rice (317). Detroit Catholic Central (322) and East Kentwood (324). Troy Athens, the Eclectic-area's other representative, finished in a three-way tie for 18th place with a 338.

"IT WAS an outstanding accomplishment by our players, and it was the most successful season we've ever had," said Al Barkley, who's coached the Falcons the past 15 years.

"We knew we could be competitive up there. We played some six times against Athens this season and we beat Brother Rice two times. We know we can play with the better teams and we just had a tremendous team effort."

"Last year we were fourth with a 321 and this was basically the same team," said Barkley. "We had some experienced players up there."

Barkley said the key this year was three returning seniors — Paul Vermuelen, Dave Rice and Dave Tull — improved on their 1984 performance by 11 total strokes.

The Falcons played incredibly as their highest scorer on the Forest Acres West Course was Vermuelen's 80 (41 in, 39-out). Their other scores were Rice (40, 35) and Jim Reading (38-36) with 75s and Tull (36-41) at 77.

Reading was shooting good at the beginning and that kind of got us started," said Barkley, whose team also won regional and county titles this fall.

"ANYTIME YOU get to the state competition, anything can happen," he said. "It was just our day, and we got a tremendous team effort."

Brother Rice, seeking to become the first repeat champion since 1971-72 when West Bloomfield turned the trick, scored just one stroke higher than it did last year in winning. They were no match for the Falcons on Monday.

"I never thought anyone would shoot 307 because the rough was very heavy," Rice coach Jim Rademacher said. "I would have thought a score in the upper teens would have won. I could see 314 winning, but a 307 is unbelievable."

Rice's low scorer for the day was Mike Brown with a 75. Anthony Dietz shot 79, followed by Rob Morad (80) and Dave Brown (83).

Troy Athens, state champions in 1982 with a score of 308, tumbled to 18th as all four of its players carded plus-80 rounds. The Red Hawks were led by Ron Clark's 82.

"We were hoping to be among the top five. It was just a bad day, and we were disappointed," said Athens coach Glenn Blair. "We won the regional and the league, so we had a good year. It was just an honor to be at the state meet."

Rochester Adams won the state Class A title in 1978 under coach Carl Pashberg. The Highlanders are not the only state golf champs from the Rochester area any longer.

Pioneer kick team blanked by Gannon

By C.J. Rlsak

So much for show-downs.

Oakland University's soccer team was faced with a do-or-die game Saturday at Gannon University. Call it a must-win, or a can't-fail, situation if you'd rather.

Well, OU didn't win. And they failed to score in a 2-0 setback. But the Pioneers aren't dead, not quite.

"It was one of our better games as far as intensity," said OU coach Gary Parsons. "We dominated play in the first half, but we just couldn't put the ball in the net."

SOUND FAMILIAR? Falling to capitulate on scoring chances has been the Pioneers' problem all season. Against Gannon, ranked No. 3 in the NCAA's Division II, OU had just as many good opportunities but the Pioneers never cashed them in.

"That's our major flaw as a team," admitted Parsons, whose team dips to 7-3-1. Gannon scored early in the second half and again late when OU pressed forward on offense, trying for the game-tying score.

Parsons is bothered by the Pioneers' poor record against the better teams in their schedule. Of the five top teams they've played so far, OU's record is 1-3-1. The Pioneers have been shut out three times; a year ago they suffered two shutout losses for the entire season.

The loss to Gannon severely hurts OU's playoff hopes. "We had an opportunity against Gannon, and now we've missed that chance," said Parsons. "Our only consolation is that we have three games left against top teams."

One of those was yesterday against University of Akron, a Division I power. Wright State and Illinois State also loom ahead.

PARSONS WON'T take his team into those contests without making changes, although what he has planned doesn't seem to make much sense at first glance.

"We're going to switch from our 4-3-3 lineup to a 4-4-2," he said, which would shift a forward to midfield. "I know it looks contradictory, considering the problems we've had scoring."

"But most teams try to match up, so if we put another player at midfield, hopefully they'll counter by pushing a defender up. That means we'll have our two best forwards working on three defenders, instead of three forwards on four defenders."

Marty Hagen, the junior from Troy Athens, will shift to midfield because "he's the most versatile and he's scored the fewest goals," Parsons said.

Parsons is bothered by the Pioneers' poor record against the better teams in their schedule. Of the five top teams they've played so far, OU's record is 1-3-1.

The Chargers, getting solid play from their fullbacks and goalkeepers, dominated things territorially.

Brian Thomas, Khalid Zaidan and Brett Murphy scored goals for Churchill. Tim Jackson added two assists. Brad Masse also assisted on a goal.

Bob Neumann tallied Franklin's lone goal.

FRANKLIN'S 3, HARRISON 1: On Tuesday, the Patriots turned back host Farmington Harrison as Neumann assisted on all three scores in a Western Lakes encounter.
