Botsford Inn gains spotlight

The Botsford Inn, at 28000 Grand River in Farmington Hills, is one of four "country inns" featured in an article entitled "Country Inns, City Style" in the November edition of AAA Michigan Living magazine.

First built in 1836 as the home of Orin Weston, the Botsford Inn has served travelers since 1841.

"Millon Botsford acquired the property in 1869, and it was at country dances in his ballroom that Henry Ford courted his future wife, Clara," the magazine points out. "Much of the country inn's flavor has been carefully retained by the Anhut family, proprietors since 1951. Expansion and modernization to accommodate today's guests respect the inn's origins," Michigan Living states. The magazine says the country inn "is the epitome of American hospitality."

Channel 12 welcomes TV 10 to our local programming lineup. TV 10 is our local Educational Access Channel.

The programming will be generated under the guidance of Dean Cobb, who is the telecommunications coordinator for the Farmington Public Schools.

Programming will be from students, interns and M-Star. M-Star is pre-produced for the Oakland County Schools. One of the initial series will be a Canadian production on "Fitness."

The primary audience targets are the students, however, evenings at 8 p.m. will feature specials for family gatherings. Subject matter will consist of local sporting events, financial seminars and entertainment.

A series entitled "Take Ten" will be produced by interns. It is a 30-minute program of entertainment.

Dean Cobb emphasizes that your feedback is most important. Call him at 626-7655.

Welcome aboard TV 10. Channel 12 encourages this additional community service.

Metrovision of Oakland County's access programming on Channel 12 and Channel 16 for the week of Nov. 11.
