Theater guild has fun with double bill

review

Performances of the First Theatre Guild production of "He Done Her Wrong, or Wedded But No Wife" by Anita Bell and "Laugh Man" by Sue Ann Gillespie Martin continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham. For ticket information, call 543-4918.

Penny Dreadfuls, popular melodramas of the 19th century, have come round again — with good reason. They're funny.

The First Theatre Guild's production of Anita Bell's "He Done Her Wrong" manages to milk a predictable yet hilarious script for all it's worth. Debra Ann Ball as Octavia Moneycracker, wealthy widow and restless mother, renders her lines with more panache than the rest of the cast. Richard Magaldi as Fleetwood Dasherway who "wants to live off the fat of the land" (many wives), rushes about in a Dracula cape, twirling his mustache fiercely. Glancing wildly at the audience, Magaldi with his lifted brows seems to be saying, "I'm made for this role." Jeff Despard's set does serve special mention. John F. Spears' direction needs speed and Jack Zupawka's piano is terrific. Suffice it to say the bi-gamist does not get his way. THIS CREW takes its desire to make us laugh into a second production. "Laugh Man," by Sue Ann Gillespie Martin, is a collection of choice bits of humor taken from the greats of past and present.

John Feld is a very good as Woody Allen. David Martin is funny as Rocky reciting Wordsworth's "Daffodils." Debra Ann Ball is a neat Lady Bracknell and Richard Magaldi is very funny in an amusing bit about a shoe salesman. The cast loosens up in "Laugh Man." Its pleasure in playing Abbott and Costello, Charlie Chaplin, Punch and Judy, and feisty Kate, and Petruchio (from "Taming of the Shrew") comes across.

A lot of hard work by a lot of good people went into the making of this night of fun, and they all deserve a bag of popcorn and a round of applause.

Harvest dinners

Schuler's restaurants is serving Michigan Harvest Dinners through Friday at its five restaurants, now in Marshall, Stevens, East, Jackson, East Lansing and Kalamazoo. The dinners, offered in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Agriculture, feature broiled Lake Superior walleye pike, Foxhill Farms, roast rib-eye of pork Allegan County and roast breast of chicken Harbor Springs.

Savory opens

Head chef James Duguay oversees a newly planted herb garden, which supplies fresh ingredients to the new Savory restaurant at the Holiday Inn West in Ann Arbor. Duguay is a veteran of the London Chop House in Detroit. Visits to the Ypsilanti Farmers Market supply seasonal fresh fruits and vegetables for Savory. Clay-potted herbs set in greenhouse-style windows accent the restaurant's country-French interior, decorated in warm beige tones. The area's first Crivinet provides service of fine wines by the glass.
