200 juried artisans selected for festival

Traditionally Thanksgiving weekend has meant the time to begin Christmas shopping. Since 1980 it has also meant the time to visit the Mercy High School Christmas Arts and Crafts Festival.

The high school, at 11 Mile and Middlebelt in Farmington Hills, began the festival in 1980 with less than 100 tables. Today, the festival contains 200 tables of juried arts and crafts.

The festival will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30, and from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, Poc. 1. An admission of $1, which will benefit the school's scholarship program, will be charged. Light holiday lunches will be provided in the cafeteria.

provided in the cateteria.

Each crastityerson who appears in the festival has gone through an extensive jurying process which began in March. Approximately 450 crastispersons juried for the 200 available spaces. Jurying was based on the quality of the craft as well as the quality of the craft alsaley.

The 200 craftspersons who were selected for the festival will be coming from as far away as Midland, Gaylord, Lansing, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Mt. Clemens as well as from metropolitan Detroit.

Farmington area residents who have been juried into the festival include Diana Fisher with counted cross stitch, Rachel Huber with knitting. Elaine Hoogerwerf with pierced tin, Ton! For-finak! with pine cone wreaths, Joan Warner with Christens ornaments, Larry White with wood, Marrion Wilson with sattling, Kathy Barringer with bread dough, Delores Petachenko with procealin, Barbura Luker with pottery and Elizabeth Keyshian with wood accessories.

and Elizabeth Keyshian with wood ac-cessories.

Other crafts which will be included within the festival are Christmas ce-ramics, stenciled hoops, duck decoys, wood furniture and macrame. There will also be fine arts, such as painting, sculpture, copper enameling and gold jeweiry available.

Peacemaker sees life's light side

Dear Ms. Green:
I've enjoyed your column for years. I am right-handed and will be 41 in two days. (The United Nations and I share the same birthday, only I am a year older than it!)

I once had a boss who said I had the worst handwriting of anyone he knew. I laughed because I couldn't read his too well either.

well cither.

Thanks for your thoughts. Your column is interesting — and fun, I bet! I wish you continued success with it.

B.W.

Dear B.W.:
Happy belated birthday!
Your handwriting suggests a mobile personality, one who enjoys being busy and actively involved with others.
People are a most meaningful part of your handliners. And your friendships of your happiness. And your friendships cover a broad spectrum. You find peo-ple of all persuasions interesting. An innate ability to size up people and situations is something with which you have been blessed. And you are able to smooth troubled waters by adapting to the needs of the moment. You do not make waves and those who know you best probably call you the peacemaker. The humor in your handwriting tells me you would probably enjoy this little one-liner I recently read. bly relate well to both youngsters and older people.

Still there is some irritation sprinkled throughout your writing which seems to be directed mainly toward self. I can only think it is because you find yourself in a situation where it is necessary for you to be giving in or acquiescing to others much of the time. Are your leadership talents being sacrificed by this?

Early in life you may have experienced some difficulty with family values. And the male authority figure appears to be somewhat disappointing to you.
