"WE HAVE tried to be sensitive to the needs of other taxing units, including our own. We'll have less operating money for the city," Costlick said. "We are very concerned about the schools. The schools depend, just like the city, on increased tax revenues."

If the TIFA plan is adopted, estimated captured assessed values from the development area of $93.3 million by 1991 would amount to an 8.8 percent increase to the school district's tax base. In 1985, Farmington Hills generated $36.1 million in tax revenues for the school district — $3,506 per student.

At 52 percent of the current tax rate levied in just the proposed development area, the district would receive an estimated $161 increase per student, amounting to a total 4.6 percent increase in revenue per student, the plan maintains.

"The school district will continue to receive incremental revenues from the remainder of the school district areas within the city of Farmington Hills at 100 percent of the current tax rate," according to the plan.

In addition, any surplus money beyond what the authority needs to finance the improvements project will be returned to the taxing jurisdiction annually. "That's a commitment we are proposing in the plan," Costick said.

Children from the Sarah Fisher Home in Farmington Hills and the Christ Child Homes in Detroit will be guests at a Christmas Day buffet Dec. 25 in the Novi Hilton's Grand Ballroom. The Novi Hilton and the Novi Rotary Club will provide gifts.
