second runs Hugh Gallagher

"Superman III" (1983), 8 p.m. Sunday on Ch. 7. Originally 123 minutes. TV time slot: 180 minutes.

This is the weakest of the three Superman films. Director Richard Lester opts for slapstick comedy over modern epic. The opening sequence keys the tone for the rest of the film. It is a brainless series of visual jokes and comes off quite well. The rest of the film is a down-hill attempt to keep a similar pace. Richard Pryor is, once again, wasted in a part that takes only a fleeting advantage of his considerable talent. This film almost killed the series, though now there is talk that it will be revived.

Rating: $1.75.

"Coming Home" (1977), 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 30. Originally 127 minutes. TV time slot: 130 minutes.

A calculated and slightly dishonest film about the effects of the war in Vietnam on the home front. Jon Voight gives a powerful performance as a paraplegic veteran who comes to despise the war. But his performance can't make up for the film's flaws. Bruce Dern brings humanity to the thankless role of the cuckold, war-mongering husband. As written, the part is pure evil melodrama, but Dern almost turns it around so that the audience roots for him. This is especially true when considering the performance of Jane Fonda (whose vehicle this really is). She overacts to a far-thee-well and sacrifices dramatic honesty for political propaganda. As one who shared her concerns about that confusing war, I could not share her cheap rhetoric. The film does have a fantastic soundtrack featuring the Rolling Stones at top form and a good professional look.

Rating: $2.50.

"Dragnet" (1989), 8 p.m. Wednesday on Ch. 9. Originally 97 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

This film was the pilot for the revival of the classic 1950s police show. Jack Webb created a new kind of American drama with "Dragnet." Though he pretended to present realism, what he actually created was highly stylized melodrama. The "dead-on, clipped dialogue and the carefully planned reaction shots were a rich source for comic parody. But Webb had something to say, something very unpleasant to anyone who cared about civil liberties and the rights of the accused. Webb was the spokesman for the right-wing, hard-core police view of the world. The cases may have been based on Los Angeles police records, but they were twisted to fit Webb's narrow viewpoint. Everything was made to make the cops look good and the rest of the public look either stupid or evil. When originally done in the 1950s, it was the kind of show that warmed the cockles of every McCarthyite heart in America. By 1969, it had become a disturbing throwback. Today, well . . . The film and revival lacked the fresh audacity and drive of the original.

Rating: $2.50.

Hungarian dance spotlighted

The Hungarian American Cultural Center will hold its fifth annual Pannonia Ball on Saturday, April 26, in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairlane Club in Dearborn.

Reservations should be made before Sunday, April 20. For ticket information call 326-7750 or 561-0175. Highlight of the evening will be a performance of the Palotas, an ancient Hungarian court dance, performed by several young members of the Hungarian American Cultural Center.
