

Cheerful country

Victoria Morland designs a cozy country kitchen as if she were preparing a picnic basket for a secret lovers' rendezvous on a sunny, summer day.

Until now Morland has been one of the best kept secrets of an inner circle of international designers.

Mixing English historical documents with tantalizing touches of French Provence and hints of the British Raj, Morland creates an eclectic vision of English Country Decoration.

She approaches it with intuitive taste, in much the same way one gathers a beautiful bouquet of garden flowers, with a sense of proper texture, scale and colour.

FOR THE WALLS, she gives us her "All in Clover" and "Clover Plaid" fabricated into flouncy window treatments and table covering accented with old lace, all in acid shades of aquamarine, lime and raspberry.

The English pine hunt board and pine plate dryer quickly establish the cheerful informality of the room. The "All in Clover" and "Clover Plaid" patterns are accented by a simplistic stripe entitled "Plain Jane." Seat covers are in "poppett" in palepink/applegreen/raspberry fool. Napkins are of "Kate" in pale pink.

All the fabrics and wallcoverings are from the new Book of English Country Decoration from Raintree Designs.

A convivial kitchen where the decor spice comes from Victoria Morland's patterns and colors from the new "Book of English Country Decoration."
