

Formal French

IF YOU like formal French, this is the foyer treatment for you. The colors are soft and delicate, accented with touches of gilt and crystal. Note the extensive use of wallpaper border on walls, ceiling and door.

The formal French foyer harks back to an earlier, more elegant age. The most conspicuous furniture item in the room is the bombe chest of drawers in burlled olive wood.

Above it, there's a gilt-framed mirror between crystal sconces, which hold electric candles.

The colors are soft and delicate. The flower-patterned Glazecraft no-wax floor tiles are an old-ivory shade. Topping the floor tiles is an oriental rug (also flower-patterned) in pastel hues. Below the chair rail, the walls are painted dusty rose. Above it, they're papered in a fine print on an old-ivory background. The door is Wedgewood blue.

The foyer's most distinctive details is the extensive use of wallpaper border to create special decorative effects. The border was applied to the walls, ceilings and door.
