

Learn remote production this summer

Just what are you going to be doing over the summer months?

More emphasis upon leisure activities to be sure. Thoughts on how to re-energize for fall activities, spending more time with friends.

Let television become a conscious part of all these plans. Everyone who has taken remote production classes may check out equipment to produce television shows. Beautiful foliage provides natural backdrops for fun and informational programs. A one-camera shoot may be very easy and fun. Plan ahead.

Here are some ideas: Listen and Learn: ask individuals, all ages, their opinions on any number of questions. Give each the same allotment of time to speak. At the beach, family gatherings, sports events, picnic areas. Subject matters may range from light-curiosity human-interest comments to serious editorials.

How to: ask business owners to generically share the intent of their craft. They may receive credits at the end of the program for their contributions.

WHAT YOU should know: When one goes to the dentist, as one enters a hardware or pharmacy, etc. Consumers need always to be better informed.

As the ideas flow on and on the Cable Television Committees continue meeting designing our communities plans for greater diversity in local programming. The public is most welcome. Plan to attend any or all meetings.

Your input of creative and practical applications is needed. The Cable Access Committee makes recommendations on the channels for local programming. They meet at Farmington City Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 10.

The Cable Commission, known as Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission, serves the cities within the franchise area of Farmington, Novi and Farmington Hills. Their role is to govern over cable. They meet at Farmington City Hall at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 17. Join us and make a difference.

Frank's doing up the infamous Monahan's teriyaki swordfish kabobs. Tomorrow night, how about Cajun shrimp kabobs (with Andouille sausage and red peppers) or tuna steaks brushed with anchovy butter, topped with smokéd mozzarella and sundried tomato? Or bluefish fillets with tomato salsa, lobster tails basted with herb-garlic butter? Start up your grill tonight and take advantage of the invitation all summer long!
