Both Reynolds and O'Connor are buoyant stars who excel in song, dance and comedy. "That's the thing, the comedy — give the people a good evening — laughs, Reynolds said of the show that's on the way. "We were raised on musicals. We both love song and dance."

REYNOLDS and O'Connor will perform three numbers from "Singir' in the Rain" (in which they costarred with Gene Kelly) during the Meadow Brock show. "He sings "You Were Meant for Me' to me, and we dance together," she said. "We also do "Good Morning," a big tap number." This was the seem from the film "when we roll all over the count."

Debbie Reynolds and Donald O'Connor will present their new act Friday, June 27, at the Meadow Brook Music Festival.

The show opens with film clips from "Singin' in the Rain." Reynolds made 45 movies during her Hollywood career and has danced with Gower Champion and Bobby Fosse, as well as O'Connor and Kelly. With O'Connor she also starred in "I Love Melvyn." Non-musical movies have paired her with Tony Curtis in "The Rat Race" and Frank Sinatra in "The Tender Trap."

Harve Presnell, her co-star in the movie musical "The Unsinkable Mily Brown," has been appearing with her heaver.
