

Hugh Gallagher

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1958), 1 a.m. tonight on Ch. 50. Originally 105 minutes. TV time slot: 120 minutes.

Tennessee Williams' sizzling story of family infighting and confused masculinity was brought to the screen with an all-star cast and a altered script. The motivations are left more vague but the film still packs a lot of power. Burt Reynolds, Paul Newman and an incredibly beautiful Elizabeth Taylor were perfect embodiments of Williams' tortured Southern characters.

Rating: $3.25.

"Yellow Submarine" (1968), 1:30 a.m. Saturday on Ch. 50. Originally 85 minutes. TV time slot: 85 minutes.

This colorful, witty and musical cartoon was inspired and blessed by the Beatles, who in animated form rush off to Popperland to save Sgt. Pepper's band from the Blue Meanies. Visually and verbally this was lightyears ahead of what was being done in animation by the late 1960s. Disney was in retreat and Ralph Bakshi hadn't made his move yet. The designs are sometimes stunning and the visualization of the Beatles' wonderful music is both charming and perceptive. The film only begins to drag in the final battle scene.

Rating: $3.20.

"The Raven" (1963), 1:30 p.m. on Ch. 50. Originally 86 minutes. TV time slot: 105 minutes.

Vincent Price made a wonderful career starring in horror films laced heavily with comedy. Here he is joined by Peter Lorre and Boris Karloff, also veterans of the horror genre. Roger Corman, the genius of low budget concocted this silliness that has little to do with Poe's poem of lost love. But who cares.

Rating: $2.50.
