

Dan Sheehan: a cable access pioneer

Thursday, September 18, 1986 O&E (FISC)

Human interest stories are a huge part of our day. We have the good fortune to have included in our responsibilities the opportunity to work with the creative side of folks. The routines and problems other than video technical difficulties take a back seat to learning aspirations and spontaneous ventures. Sounds like fun? It is.

There are, however, the people who do hold enough rein on the excitement to sit still for us and go through the grueling fundamentals of recommending guidelines and policies for our community access channels. These people are friends, neighbors and family members who have been appointed by the mayors to the Cable Access Commission.

All this came to mind as one member turned in his resignation as he and his wife are moving away. Dan Sheehan, an advertising professional, has challenged our meetings with dynamic and high-powered direction to perfect our marketing skills.

Dan has understood the momentum necessary to carry the pioneering project on local television. I, in particular have appreciated this support. The entire committee thanks Dan for his time and energies.

executive director,
Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission

We will feature the other members of the Cable Access Commission who are volunteering their time to ensure that the opportunity for freedom of expression prevails through cable television.

The members of the Cable Access Commission are: chairman Jim Mitchell of Farmington; Jeanne Liming of Farmington; Carol Bauer of Novi; Pat Burnett of Novi; Susan Foster of Novi; David Doldge of Farmington Hills; Diana Thornhill of Farmington Hills; and Ray Voss of Farmington Hills.

Next time you see them, please, thank them for their efforts.
