Halloween tips provided

Farmington Hills' special services and crime prevention divisions co-sponsored the distribution of trick or treat bags to Farmington Public Schools kindergartners last week. Each child also received a Halloween safety coloring book. The plastic trick or treat bags featured Officer McGruff, the crime dog, reminding adults and children that following a few simple rules would assure them of a safe and fun Halloween. Joining McGruff was Parky the Panda, the city's recreation division mascot. Both Parky and McGruff visited with kindergartners all week to reinforce McGruff's safety tips. Above, special services staff member Colette Fornay, McGruff, Parky and Crime Prevention Officer Dennis Brills talk Halloween safety with costumed kindergartners at Beechview Elementary Friday morning.

At right, Beechview kindergartner Matthew Marvin, dressed as a vampire, listens in. The program was developed by Brills, Fornay and recreation division staff member David Justus.
