

Restaurants cook turkeys to go

This Thanksgiving do you want a traditional turkey dinner, complete with all the fixings but minus the fuss? Then call for a turkey-to-go.

The Michigan Restaurant Association says many restaurants across the state will be offering hot, freshly baked turkeys ready to take home, carve and serve. For families who don't want to cook or clean up afterward, many restaurants also will be open Thanksgiving Day to serve the traditional turkey dinner.

However, to be sure the restaurant of your choice will be open, the MRA suggests calling ahead to make reservations.

Holiday meats: special treats

Traditionally, holiday festivities are shared at a large gathering of the family clan. More and more frequently, however, holiday celebrations have become a smaller, more intimate family affair. The following are special meat cuts that can be used:

select impressive meat cuts that can be easily roasted in the oven and then artfully presented and carved at the table. Some examples include beef rib roast, pork crown roast, smoked ham shank (half or whole) or leg of lamb.

For a large family gathering, select smaller, extra-special meat cuts and prepare them in different ways, such as cutting pockets and filling with a stuffing or serving with a specially seasoned sauce. Some examples include pork butterflied chops, beef tenderloin steaks, beef rib eye roast (two pounds), veal chops and lamb loin chops.

For a small family group, se-
