

police/fire calls

Listed are some of the Farmington-area police and fire calls received during the past week:

GOODS RECOVERED

A store employee looked up with a customer whose car had a cellular telephone to help police nab a man who allegedly took $300 worth of ski clothing from Bavarian Village, 27847 Orchard Lake, Nov. 22.

When the employee saw a man walk out with ski clothing without paying and get into a car with another man and a woman inside, the employee and a customer followed in the customer's telephone-equipped car.

With information provided by phone from the employee, Farmington Hills police were able to locate the woman outside an office building on 11 Mile in Southfield, where she had been dropped off. Southfield police stopped the suspected getaway car and its two male occupants soon after on Telegraph, according to a Farmington Hills police report.

Only the man who allegedly took the clothing was charged with larceny over $100. He stood mute at his arraignment Nov. 23 before District Judge Margaret Schaeffer of Farmington. An innocent plea was entered in his behalf. Bond was set at $5,000 pending a preliminary exam in 47th District Court.

INDECENT EXPOSURE

A customer at Frank's Nursery & Crafts, 31550 Grand River, reported an indecent exposure as she shopped at 5 p.m. Nov. 21, according to the Farmington Department of Public Safety.

The man reportedly exposed himself as the customer looked toward him.
