Cast includes 2 area performers

Two area residents are making their Michigan Opera Theatre debuts with the MOT production of the musical "My Fair Lady," which continues through Sunday, at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit. Virginia Person of Birmingham portrays Mrs. Elmsford-Hill, and Shirley Bonny of West Bloomfield plays Mrs. Pearce.

Person has long been involved in television, concert work, opera and theater in the Detroit area. She recently celebrated the 35th anniversary of the world premiere performance of "Eastward in Eden," an American opera in which she starred as Emily Dickinson, at the Wayne University Theater in Detroit.

She has performed in several operas at the Detroit Institute of Arts and soloed with the Detroit, Plymouth, Saginaw and Women's symphonies, to name a few. She was seen regularly on the early TV station WWJ in short dramatic skits.

Bonny has a history of major roles with the Attie Theatre, Fourth Street Playhouse and the Theatre Company. She appeared as soloist with the Detroit Symphony in addition to a variety of concerts and recitals with the Overture to Opera Company, which preceded MOT. Her husband, Bob Benyas, is photographer for the Jewish News.

MOT's "My Fair Lady" opened Nov. 14 for 22 performances. Eastwood Clinics will celebrate its 16th anniversary Sunday at the show's final performance. Dinner at the Recces Club at 9 p.m. will be followed by the play at 6:30 p.m., with a return to the Recces Club at 8:30 for fantasy dessert.

Eastwood Clinics is a private, non-profit mental health and substance abuse treatment system with 16 locations serving southern Michigan. Tickets for the evening at $55 are available from Eastwood, 526-6000.

For other ticket information, call the MOT box office at 874-SING. Tickets also are available at Ticket World outlets and Hudson's stores.
