Plays back— talks back

This Sharp stereo cassette player/clock radio has the unusual feature of talking back. Push a button and it will tell you the time. It comes in three colors: gray, blue and green. At $135 in some area stores, including Jacobson's.

Eyeglass binoculars

Computers have made it possible for people wearing eyeglasses to use binoculars. They have only to turn down the rubber cup on each eye piece and let the computerized focusing take over. By turning the rubber cup the other way, non-eyeglass wearers can also use the binocs. A specialty item at Jacobson's at $119.

BUILD YOUR OWN COBBLE-U-LOG™ CABIN

This unique playhouse will provide endless hours of fun and creative activity for your child. The COBBLE-U-LOG pieces are made from non-toxic flame retardant corrugated cardboard. Assembly is easy and requires no additional supplies. The roomy 5' x 3' x 5' cabin is constructed of interlocking "logs" which have been designed for unusual strength and durability. In addition, they can be used to construct an endless variety of other things. The plain brown surfaces are ideal for coloring, painting, etc. $60.00

Yamaha DX100 Synthesizer.

Takes you places just standing still.

Just strap it over your shoulder. Press the right button and you can be flying a helicopter. Or playing a car. Or playing a screaming lead guitar. Because the DX100 has 100 preset sounds that you can play with. Or make up your own sounds. It runs on batteries or even an A/C adapter. And you can play it through your stereo or your headphones. Whenever you want to go, the DX100 synthesizer can take you there.
