Saab for 1987

A redesigned front end, including new, integrated bumpers, flush headlights and a sloping chrome grille, is featured on all versions of the Saab 900 line for 1987. The Saab 900S, (above) is available in both three-door hatchback and four-door sedan versions. It uses the 16-valve naturally aspirated — non-turbo — Saab two-liter engine.

Question: Why Did Buick Motor Division Choose Armstrong Buick to Prepare Their Detroit Auto Show Cars?
