Catholic Central favored at Salem

trict championship at raymous Salem.

"You know, I don't even know how many districts we have won. I don't keep track of that," Rodriguez said. "All I keep track of is the big trophy."

The big trophy is the one awarded to the state champion. Salurday's district tournament is the first hurdle. And if ever a consensu can be reached among wrestling coaches, the consensus is that CC should clear it with minimal difficulty.

CC should clear it with minimal difficulty.

"I'll be CC then the rest of us," said Plymouth Salem coach Ron Krueger, who will play host to the I'r-team tournament Saturday. "I think CC will handle the districts and the regionals. But when they get to the states, it'll be them us, everybody else, and that's when it gols tough."
