Eagle rank earned

Farmington's newest Eagle Scout is Raymond Ingles of Troop 45. Scouting's highest and most prestigious award will be given to the Catholic Central High School senior March 18 in First United Methodist Church of Farmington.

Ingles has served Troop 45 since 1980 as a patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader and senior patrol leader.

His community service project, a requisite for the rank, was cleaning and making interior modifications on a barn located in Heritage Park.

"At Catholic Central he is an honor roll student, a member of the Science Club, a member of the Conservation Club, and vice president of the area-wide High School Mathematics Club.

The Farmington resident is a National Merit Scholar finalist and will enter University of Michigan School of Engineering this fall. He is an in-

I myself. I felt stronger, more confident, was more in control of my life than ever before.

"The other hand I had matured enough to know I'd never have it all I was scared, angry, resentful."

RICE HAS SINCE found out she was alone.

The response to "Transitions" has been "good" — better than I had hoped for and the surprise was that positive response from men," he said. "For the viewer this is a show of sharing. The experiences the women are sharing, I believe, are the same underlying experiences for men. We're really talking about human issues, the world over, and that's what I think is the topic that has drawn the most interest."

"Aging brings you intelligence, politicalization, world-awareness and a conglomerate of a lot of experiences, whether you know it or not."
