Today's kitchen are as much for entertaining as they are for cooking. The integration of these two functions is displayed in this design, which uses an island to incorporate both a cook top and seating for guests and family.

Tailor kitchen to meet your household needs

HAVE YOU EVER muttered in disgust while emptying a cabinet only to find the desired item buried in back? Have you ever snarled at your oven? Have you ever dreamed about a new kitchen?

You're not alone. The National Kitchen and Bath Association estimates that millions of people share your frustrations, and at least three million of them plan to do something about it by remodeling.

The challenge is not to replace, but to create a kitchen superior to its predecessor. . . a kitchen that works . . . a kitchen to be proud of.

ACCORDING TO kitchen design experts, successful kitchen design begins by identifying who uses the kitchen, and for what purposes? Is it a common family gathering point, or the domain of a gourmet chef? When you entertain, do guests gravitate toward the kitchen or are caterers in full command? Are food preparation activities shared by a spouse or children?

In the evaluation process, cooking needs are universally recognized at the starting point. Whether you cook every day, several times a week or rarely will affect the size, layout and type of equipment in your new kitchen.

For example, couples who share meal preparation activities may wish to include such features as two sinks (one for clean up and one for washing produce), double ovens and built-in counter savers scattered throughout the kitchen.

IF YOUR ENTERTAINING style is casual, you might consider an entertainment bar built right into an island counter.

On the other hand, catered affairs may necessitate the installation of warming drawers, multiple ovens and wide shelved refrigerators that can accommodate party trays.

If the household includes children or teens, a microwave oven for making after-school snacks or refrigerator with exterior ice dispenser are considerations.

Once you have related your needs to your lifestyle, decision-making becomes easier. The National Kitchen and Bath Association has produced a 40-page illustrated booklet to help guide consumers through the kitchen installation process, from compiling a wish list to exploring the many options in cabinets, appliances, plumbing and ventilation. Famous last words

"The more help a man has in his garden, the less it belongs to him."
— William H. Davies, English poet and author.

"In order to live off a garden, you practically have to live in it."
— Frank McKinney Hubbard, American newspaper humorist and caricaturist (creator of "Abe Martin").

"Adam was a gardener and God, who made him, sees that half of all good gardening is done on the knees." — Rudyard Kipling, English poet, novelist and short-story writer.

"What a man needs in gardening is a cast-iron back, with a hinge in it." — Charles Dudley Warner, American editor and essayist.

"Whatever a man's age, he can reduce it by several years by putting a bright-colored flower in his buttonhole." — American humorist Mark Twain.
