

'Cary Grant' blooms

AP — "Cary Grant" is the name given to a new hybrid tea rose bred by Alain Meilland, of Cap Antibes, France. Meilland installed a planting of the rose at the royal garden at Monaco and named it for the late American actor, who was a close friend of the late Princess Grace.

The rose, introduced in the Wayside Gardens catalog, is distinctive in fragrance, color and form. The buds, each with 35 to 40 petals, gradually roll back to present a bicolor effect, with bright orange blooms with red tones over the mature petals and creamy yellow on the reverse side. The plant is bushy, upright, above average height, hardy and disease-tolerant, according to Wayside.

shingle edge and pressing down. The caulk will compress and serve as an adhesive.

Once all flashing and shingles are sealed, gutters and downspouts are next.

Start by removing protective screening, if there is one, where the gutter meets the downspout. Clean this screen and remove all the debris collected at the gutter outlet.

Next, check the clearance of the downspout by working the "snake" down the outlet from the gutter.

When this is done, stick the garden hose down the outlet and turn on the water. This will flush all debris down and into the drain.

During this flushing, check all downspout and gutter surfaces for small holes, particularly at the neck of the downspouts.
