Pitching is key to Salem hopes in Lakes Division

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Nothing is ever for sure. Guaranteed victories in sports are rare; a break or two can turn a season.

The softball teams at Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem have yet to play their first regular-season game, which means speculating on each team's chances for success is conjecture. Each opens its season with question marks.

But at Canton, the questions are greater in number. Salem seems far more solid, more stable. But the Rocks don't have a proven pitcher, someone good enough to put them over the hump and take them to a Western Lakes Activities Association (WLA) title and far into the state tournament.

Both squads enjoyed successful seasons in 1986. But while Salem returns the nucleus of players that were instrumental in its 21-6 season, Canton has just four players back with any extensive experience from a team that went 10-6.

That should be enough to formulate a preseason prediction. Here, though, is a more in-depth look at each team.

CANTON

"We're just going to have to get out there and see how we match up," said Max Sommerville, Canton's softball coach.

It was far easier a year ago to figure the Chiefs' chances. "Last year, I was set real solid in just about every position before the season," said Sommerville. "This year nothing's certain."

It won't take a massive rebuilding job for Canton, but it'll be close. Back are junior shortstop Kelly McCumber, the team's leading hitter in '86 with a .350 average; senior first baseman-outfielder Yvonne Livernols, who is switching from catcher after suffering a knee injury; senior center-fielder Kelly Lingenfelder, a part-timer last season; and senior third baseman Peggy Majari, a utility player a year ago.

THE LEADING pitching candidate is Laurie Madden, a junior who threw in a few games last season. Junior Sheri Arelio is Madden's back-up.

Sommerville has just four seniors on the team. In fact, he is carrying just 12 on the varsity roster. "We are really inexperienced," he said. "We should get better as the season goes along. I think we should be able to play good defense, but I'm not sure we can score."

For now, the future seems more promising than the present for Canton softball.

SALEM

Seven starters are back on a team that went 21-8. That alone makes Salem a candidate for first in the WLA's Lakes Division.

Coach Rob Willette isn't so sure, though. Not with pitcher Maggie Willette and center-fielder Leslie Plichta graduated.

"It always seems I'm looking for someone to throw," lamented Willette.

Don't fret for the Rocks, though. Willette has three promising pitchers from whom to choose, including junior Kim Barrie, who was 3-0 a year ago as Meisner's back-up. Senior Kristin Sobolich and junior Laura Sewsky are also challenging for the position.

And, as important as pitching is in softball, experience isn't everything. As Willette noted, "Maggie never pitched before last year and she came through."

THE PITCHERS will get a lot of support. The infield is anchored by a trio of seniors with at least three years of experience as starters: first baseman Denise Tackett, a four-year varsity player with more than 100 career RBIs; shortstop Jessica Handley, another solid hitter; and third baseman Marilee Walker. At second base is sophomore Ann Mundinger, an all-WLA pick as a freshman.

The outfield is nearly as impressive. Two starters return: seniors Sandy Oberliesen in left field, and Mary Jo Callan, a right fielder last year who will play center this season.

Three other starters return for Harrison: sophomore catcher Lisa Donovan, junior left-fielder Katie Doll, and senior right-fielder Edye Fleischer. Junior Stacy Kool was a standout on the Harrison JV a year ago and looks solid this year at first base.

"We were right at the edge last year of being a really good team," said Teachman. "With this many veterans, I hope we can go over the edge."

Teachman added he is "satisfied with our defense, and our hitting looks like it's really going to come around." So are there any problems?

One big one: schedule. Harrison opens with John Glenn, Salem and Franklin. If the Hawks survive their early-season exams, they could make a run for first.

three years of varsity experience. This year, they will be the Hawks' co-captains.

Reyst is back to pitch, and Harrison coach Mike Teachman thinks she could be much better than last season. One reason is Reyst's determination to improve, which took her to several summer camps. Another is junior varsity coach Cindy Zelinsky, who was an all-league pitcher at Wayne State University in Nebraska, and who has worked hard with Reyst.

Culbertson also will pitch, when Reyst isn't, but mostly she'll play third base. The left side of Harrison's infield will be in good hands, with Splitz moving from center field to shortstop.
