

North raises money

About 65 North Farmington High students raised more than $3,000 for Cloverdale Developmental Center during an overnight marathon at the school.

This was the second year for the student-sponsored event, which included volleyball, dancing, badminton, swimming and table tennis, according to student and teacher organizers.

The event, which began March 27 at 5 p.m. and ended the next day at noon, was co-sponsored by the Student Council and the National Honor Society.

Parents and teachers from both North and Cloverdale chaperoned the event. Parents cooked breakfast for the marathoners on Saturday morning, according to Student Council adviser Bill Brinker. Students at all grade levels participated.

The community also gave support, with local merchants donating food and prizes and the event. "We received tremendous support from the merchants," Brinker said. "They certainly came through and supported us."

Magic Man pays visits to library

The Magic Man, Howard Faber of Farmington Hills, spun his wizardry at both branches of the Farmington Community Library last week as part of National Library Week.

During two 45-minute shows, Faber delighted and involved trick lovers of all ages — kids as well as moms and dads. All eyes were on center stage when a live bunny magically appeared and when the Magic Man gave several youngsters a chance to win a $100 bill.

The Magic Man took to the stage April 8 at the Farmington branch and April 11 at the Farmington Hills branch. A balloon launch followed the second show.

The Friends of the Farmington Community Library sponsored the shows.
