AAA teams up with Ticketmaster

AAA Michigan's Farmington branch has affiliated its entertainment ticket sales operation with Ticketmaster Michigan's computerized system and is now part of the nation's largest ticket distribution network.

"This agreement greatly increases the variety of events for which we will sell tickets to the public," explained Michael Wild, AAA Michigan assistant vice president Customer Services.

"Through the Ticketmaster service, our customers will be able to purchase the best available seats by visiting the Farmington office as well as any one of our 36 branches affiliated with Ticketmaster statewide," he said.

Under the agreement, AAA Michigan branches will sell tickets for such popular Detroit-area events as Detroit Lions, Tigers, Red Wings, and Pistons games and sports and entertainment tickets for Joe Louis Arena, Cobo Hall, Fisher Theatre, Masonic Temple, Pine Knob, Pontiac Silverdome, Meadow Brook and the Premier Center.

In addition, tickets will be available for Ann Arbor's Crisler Arena and Hill Auditorium, Stratford (Ontario) Festival tickets and seats to many sports and entertainment events in the Toledo, Ohio, area also will be sold.

All 49 AAA Michigan branches statewide will continue to sell admission tickets to area amusement parks, including Bobo Island, Cedar Point, King's Island, Sea World and Canada's Wonderland, as well as Greenfield Village.

Wild noted that the AAA Michigan outlets offering tickets have combined with 45 Ticketmaster outlets in the state.

The Farmington office will sell tickets from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays.

AAA Michigan introduced its network of sports and entertainment tickets in 1982. Ticketmaster (formerly Ticketworld) has been in business since 1979.
