

JVS trains clients for employment

Jewish Vocational Service and Community Workshop, which recently dedicated their new building in Southfield, provides programs and training. One of the most successful efforts, supported work, helps clients like the one at left find work in the community. A developmentally disabled adult, she is employed at Olga's in Birmingham.

Volunteers needed for costume research library

A volunteer Library Associate program is being introduced to assist researchers using The Detroit Fashion Group Fashion Library in Memory of Tavy Stone, scheduled for relocation in the fall to the second floor of the Detroit Historical Museum.

Library Associates will fill an important role in making the library accessible to students and other researchers. They will provide assistance for visitors, security for the books, files VCR equipment and tapes as well as perform other library related tasks. They will be invited to audit new exhibits and familiarize themselves with the costume collection under the direction of the museum's curator of costumes.

Candidates, both men and women, should be interested in working with young people, history, fashion and related fields and be able to make a commitment to the program for a minimum of two years. Volunteers will attend an introductory course, beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 15. Following an orientation, prospective volunteers will meet from 10 a.m. to noon through Oct. 27. Topics will include the museum collection, facilities, files, merchandising, marketing and other careers and conservation and restoration. After completing the course, the volunteer Library Associates will be required to serve a minimum of two afternoons a month, scheduled to each volunteer's convenience, Wednesdays through Saturdays.

"It is our hope the Library Associate will find the experience a rewarding one," stated Janet Hans, coordinator of the Library Associate program for The Fashion Group of Detroit Inc. which funded the library and continues to maintain its collection. "Without these volunteers we will not be able to keep the library open on a regular basis."

Applicants should contact Bea Jobsey of the Detroit Historical Society, 833-7937, during business hours, Monday through Friday, for further information and appointments.
