

Arboretum office complex growing

The largest office complex in Farmington Hills, and a link in the 1-696/12 Mile Corridor marks the launching and pre-leasing of Phase 3 in a six-phase operation.

The Arboretum, on a 50-acre site at 12 Mile between Drake and Farmington roads, is a new concept in office parks where pools, atriums and landscaped alcoves create a retreat at the center of each building.

City officials attended a party Nov. 18 commemorating the Arboretum's completion of Phase 2 and launching of Phase 3.

Partners in the Arboretum project, Robert Katzman, Peter Burton and Ronald Hughes, created the office park complex. Amenities include eateries, banking facilities, mail services and printing shops.

The building design features glassed-in walkways connecting every building and second- and third-floor offices overlooking courtyards.

The exterior of the complex is set amidst rolling hills and tree-lined pathways.

The Arboretum's landscape concept was recognized by the Farmington Hills Beautification Commission when it presented the Arboretum with a 1987 City of Farmington Hills Beautification Award.

Tenants include Delta Dental, TWR, Mercy Health Services and Toyota Machinery, U.S.A.

The Arboretum is in a Farmington Hills Fortune 500 setting, with neighbors like Manufacturer's Hanover Mortgage Co., Texas Instruments, Alexander Hamilton Insurance, Jervis B. Webb and Robert Bosch Corp.

The project's architect is Nick Chaitas and Associates of Farmington Hills. Marketing for the project is through Burland, Reis, Murphy & Rembeisa of Southfield.

This is an artist's rendering of the Arboretum Office Park on 12 Mile, west of Farmington Road. Two phases have now been completed. Pre-leasing has begun on Phase 3.

The Odd Couple

Heindel and Jerod Gunsberg. Show time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the school on 13 Mile between Orchard Lake Road and Farmington Road. Tickets are $3, or $2.50 for senior adults and students, at the door.
