Feel great in '88 calendar offered

"Feel Great in '88" is both the title and the message behind the American Institute for Cancer Research's new 1988 health tips calendar. Its colorful format provides a collection of recipes, health information and practical suggestions for healthier living.

Using colorful, light-hearted illustrations and easy-to-understand health information, the calendar provides a variety of information for a healthier lifestyle. Because the American Institute for Cancer Research focuses its research and education programs on reducing cancer risk through diet and nutrition, many of the health tips, including recipes, provide easy-to-follow nutritional information for lower cancer risk. But the calendar also provides a variety of other health information, including pointers on stress reduction and on the positive effects of sensible exercise programs. The practical advice given can provide a good basis for a healthy start to each day.

"Feel Great in '88" is part of the education program of the American Institute for Cancer Research, a national, non-profit cancer organization that provides educational information on cancer and cancer prevention, and that funds cancer research at hospitals and universities across the country.

Although there is no charge for this special calendar, the institute is requesting a donation, if possible, to help support its research and education programs. A copy of the calendar may be ordered by writing to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FG88, Washington, D.C. 20059.
